Garrison Blocks Opening of DAV Bingo Tonight

Check of Books Ordered

Says It Must Be For Charity

Service-Safety Director Earl T. Garrison told the News-Journal today the DAV bingo game in the new Frankel building would not open until he is convinced it meets the state law.

The game, which was to have been sponsored by the DAV Chapter 112, was scheduled to open tonight in the new building at Fifth and Mulberry street.

Garrison said he would have the organization's books checked to determine whether proceeds of the game would be used for charity as required by law.

"Until we find out that they are operating on the same basis as the other legal bingo games, they will not run," the director said.

Garrison said the organization told him it would "go along" with the order.

The new DAV chapter, formed about a year ago, had scheduled a grand opening of its new clubrooms in the Frankel building tonight.

Moton Smith, commander of the new chapter, could not be reached for comment.

The new DAV quarters include two large first-floor rooms and two basement rooms. Three of the rooms are equipped with long tables to seat 750 persons.

Takes Turn For Worse

Lt. Taylor In 'Poor' Condition

The condition of Police Lt. William J. Taylor, shot twice a week ago today when he attempted to disarm a crazed war veteran, took a turn for the worse today. Hospital attendants reported Lt. Taylor's condition as "poor."

Taylor was shot twice in the abdomen with a .22 calibre pistol held by Robert Dilgard in a tussle with the war veteran at his home, 321 East Fourth street. Dilgard was killed by Patrolman Carl F. Berry when he turned his gun on the patrolman after wounding Taylor.

Police co-workers said Taylor spent a "bad night" and that he was given oxygen throughout the night.

Taylor, a 38-year-old navy veteran, joined the force six and a half years ago. Since his injury, both the police and hospital switchboards have been swamped with calls about his condition.

The attending physician said the police officer's condition was "not as good as it was" and that it may be necessary to perform another operation.

GM Announces Lower Prices

DETROIT—The General Motors company today announced reductions ranging from $10 to $40 on autos produced by the corporation. The price cuts came on the heels of an announcement that employes wages, based on the Labor department's cost of living index, were to take a slight cut.

The price reductions were as follows:

Chevrolet division reports a $10 reduction effective today on all its passenger cars and trucks.

Buick announced its reductions will range from $16 to $30.

Other reductions: Pontiac $15 off on all models, Oldsmobile: $15 off on the "76" series and $20 off on the "88" and "98" series. Cadillac: $25 off on the "61" and "62" series, $30 off on the "60 Special" and $40 off on the series "75."

Appears Before Probers

(Compiled From Wire Services)

The Federal Grand Jury investigating communism and espionage was called into special session today to hear testimony by Anna Louise Strong, pro-communist American writer deported from Russia as a "spy."

Mrs. Strong was questioned intensively by the FBI yesterday upon her arrival from the Soviet Union by airplane.

The 64-year-old Nebraska-born writer has been in hiding since her arrival by transatlantic plane at La Guardia field early yesterday.

She cancelled a reservation at one hotel, and, as far as could be learned, kept only one appointment during the ensuing 24 hours—at the law office of former U. S. Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge, her attorney.

ASKS FOR REST

Herbert J. Fabricant, an associate of Rogge, arranged for Dr. Strong's appearance today before the federal jury to which his client was summoned as she stepped from her plane.

Fabricant asked and received a brief respite for the woman who was deported by the Soviet regime which she had praised in her writings during the last 28 years.

Fabricant said that Dr. Strong had had a wearying trip from the Russian border to New York. He also pointed to her lengthy session with customs and health authorities at the airport, a three-hour interrogation by FBI agents and a stormy early morning press conference immediately following her landing, as excuses for wanting to rest.

U. N. Hears World Plan

LAKE SUCCESS — (AP) — The United States laid before the United Nations today the broad outlines of President Truman's "bold new program" for long-range betterment of under privileged areas the world over.

The first major policy statement here on the fourth point in Mr. Truman's inaugural address was given to the 18-nation economic and social council by Assistant Secretary of State Willard L. Thorp.

There was no mention of how much money the United States might put up or ho wprivate capital would participate as proposed by Mr. Truman, but Thorp told the council:

"In order to safeguard the cooperative nature of the enterprise and the international character of the organization sponsoring it, no one country should be expected to assume all or most of the financial burden of the expanded program."

Decide On Milk Price

Mansfield dairymen said today that an announcement on milk prices would be forthcoming within 24 hours.

"By tomorrow morning," a spokeman for the dairymen said, "we will have decided what we're going to do. The matter is now under discussion."

It was reported earlier this week that the price of milk might come down two cents a quart on March 1. Dairymen today declined to intimate what the reduction, if any, in price would be.

Bromfield New Ohio Board Chief

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Louis Bromfield of Lucas, Richland county, today was elected chairman of the Ohio Conservation and Natural Resources commission. He succeeds A. E. Rupp of Cambridge. Emory Beethan of Cleveland was re-elected vice chairman.

The board, comprised of eight members and the director of agriculture, regulates seasons on fish and game, and in general controls activities of the state conservation division.

Two Flee OSR, One Captured

Leave Trail Of Stolen Cars

One of two Mansfield reformatory inmates who fled the institution farm yesterday afternoon was in custody of Crawford county authorities today while his companion continued to lead state police on a dizzy chase through northern Ohio. The pair stole three cars, authorities said.

Clyde Wells, sentenced from Warren county (Lebanon) was captured as he walked along State Route 4 north of Bucyrus at 8 a. m. today.

OSR officials said Wells and Richard Carlton, 22, still at large, fled the farm between 3 and 3:30 p. m. yesterday in a red car owned by John Sneeringer. Sneeringer's father, C. J. Sneeringer, is employed as a gardener at the OSR.

Trail of the two fugitives was picked up last night five miles north of Bucyrus on Route 4 when the red convertible was found out of gas and abandoned along the highway.

Shortly afterwards, Crawford county sheriff's deputies were notified that a car owned by Emery Sailor had been stolen from along Route 19 north of Bucyrus and approximately one mile from the abandoned red car. The Sailor car was found a few minutes later, one-fourth mile south of Bucyrus in a ditch.

PATROL HIGHWAY

Crawford county authorities called state highway patrolmen and Seneca county authorities in on the hunt and patrolled Route 4 until past 2 a. m. today, deputies said.

Early today, Norton police notified Crawford county deputies that a car had been abandoned at a filling station in the town, located between Delaware and Waldo. The car, owned by Chester Schiefer, State Route 4, and believed stolen after the Sailor car was abandoned, was damaged. Crawford county deputies said kerosene had been substituted for gasoline in the car and that the body and fenders had been crumpled.

Wells told Crawford county authorities that he and Carlton "split up" when the search for them closed in. Carlton is believed somewhere in the Norton area.

Both Wells and Carlton are serving one-to-20 year terms at the OSR for auto theft. Wells was received from Warren county on Nov. 3, 1944 and Carlton from Lucas county on July 31, 1946.

Giant Tide Rips Beach

(Compiled from Wire Dispatches)

Authorities today feared a recurrence of giant tides which sent heavy seas battering against Redonda Beach, California, where 100 families were forced to evacuate yesterday.

The huge waves hurled 50-pound boulders about like pebbles, and flooded the shoreline streets four feet deep. Scores of automobiles were stalled in deep water.

No monetary value was set on damage, but property damage was reported high.

Meanwhile, a sharp freeze eased the flood threat in the west and midwest from run-off waters. Temperatures sank below freezing in the critical area, leading one weather bureau official to call the freeze 'providential.'

Cow Tramples and Gores Farm Wife

ZANESVILLE —(AP)— A cow attacked Mrs. Mary Delancey, 23, when she started to milk the animal last night on her farm near Caldwell.

The cow trampled and gored the farm wife, who suffered critical injuries. She was brought to Good Samaritan hospital here.

Mrs. Delancey's husband John beat off the animal with a club.

ROMEO 'RAFFLES'—Police of a dozen cities attest to the super-skill of handsome Gerard Graham Dennis as a burglar whose thefts from homes of the wealthy reputedly totaled hundreds of thousands of dollars. His arrest in Cleveland also led to revelation of his prowess in affairs of the heart. Already married in Canada, he lived in Montreal and New York with Eleanor Farrell for several years. After Dennis was caught, police arrested Betty Ritchie, an ex-school teacher, in his Beverly Hills, Cal., apartment. Model Gloria Horowitz is credited with putting police on his trail.

Grrr! Fight's On

Situation Has Gone To Dogs—Stewart

The Democrats growled back today at yesterday's Republican bark over hiring of an assistant dog warden for Richland county at a salary of $225 per month.

Guy F. Stewart, Democratic chairman of the board of commissioners, called the dog situation in the county "the most deplorable ever known."

He said it would take three years to clear up conditions, rather than two or three months as suggested yesterday by his Republican colleague, C. L. Shoup.

Shoup charged yesterday that the cost of hiring a second warden would top the revenue he could bring in through added dog tag sales. Shoup opposed hiring of Sam Peterson, of Lexington, R. D. 1, as assistant warden. He contends he should have been hired on a short-term basis.

Stewart said the decision to hire an assistant warden was reached after he talked with officials of other counties at the state convention in December. He quoted Ashland County Dog Warden Carl W. Koegler as saying he has found the situation in eastern Richland county the worst of any county surrounding Ashland county.

"We've only sold half the tags that should have been sold, according to our population," Stewart said. He estimated that 10,000 to 12,000 tags should be sold.

Stewart said that 7,487 tags have been sold and orders in the auditor's office would push the figure over the 7,500 mark. As of Feb. 15, the day before the second warden began working, 7,212 tags had been sold.

'NO POLITICS'

"This is not a matter of politics," Stewart said, "but a matter of getting a bad situation cleaned up."

Stewart said that an old sheriff's car replaced by a new one purchased last week, would be used by the second warden.

He said a house-to-house canvass to get people to buy the tags had started, but the wardens have been sidetracked apprehending dogs and answering sheep claims.

He said the question involved more than selling additional dog tags. "The people who buy tags are entitled to protection and so are the owners of livestock," he said. Richland county last year paid out $5,881 in animal claims and $181 in witnesses' fees, Stewart said.

One family on relief has 13 children and 14 dogs, Stewart said. None of the dogs have tags, Stewart said, and the taxpayers are paying to feed the dogs, he said.

He said picking up stray female dogs, would result in fewer dogs in future years. The dog warden reported that 24 dogs, 10 of them females were apprehended last week.

Case of Love At First Sip

CINCINNATI — (INS) — Divorcee Margaret Durkee, 39, a double amputee, is to have a public wedding tomorrow in the same Cincinnati tavern in which she met her fiance, Victor Heirhoffe, 52, last fall.

The ceremonies, to which the public is invited, are to be performed by a justice of the peace at 3:30 p. m.—almost the cocktail hour, by some strange coincidence.

O. D. Casey, owner of the cocktail lounge where the rites are to take place, said:

"They fell in love at first sip."

2 Confess To Spying

Bulgaria Tries Church Leaders

(Compiled From Wire Services)

Nikola Naumov, first of 15 church leaders to be tried by a Bulgarian court on charges of espionage, treason, and black market dealing entered a plea of guilty to all counts today.

His confession was followed by that of Yanko Nikolov, accused of the same activities. Both men expressed sorrow for what they had done.

Naumov was the first to be called for questioning before the three-man district court. Among other charges, the clergymen are accused of spying for the United States and Britain.

"Do you plead guilty?" Naumov was asked by Court President Constantine Undjiev. "Tell the truth and only the truth. If you tell the truth, the court will take into account that you are repentent."

"I confess I am guilty," Naumov said in a clear voice. "I am sincerely sorry for what I have done."

French Act On Rebellion Plea

PARIS —(AP)— A high government source said today War Minister Paul Ramadier had taken legal action against the Central committee of the French communist party for allegedly inciting the army to revolt.

The informant said Ramadier's complaint was based on statements made in posters and the communist daily L'Humanite during last fall's miners' strike.

Ramadier's complaint was sent to Justice Minister Robert Lecourt, the informant said. Lecourt will send it to the public prosecutors, whose job it is to start action against those members of the committee who are not members of the national assembly.

Hobby Proves Fatal

Takes 'Trick' Picture of Own Hanging

CLEVELAND — (AP) — John K. Rogers, 35, has taken his last "trick" photograph of himself in a hanging pose.

Rogers' landlord found him last night hanging from a kitchen door, a canvas mover's strap around his throat and in his hand a string leading to the shutter of a camera which sat on a nearby table. The flashbulb on the camera was spent.

In Rogers' downstairs suite police said they found "dozens" of pictures of Rogers, some in hanging poses, others tied in different positions to various objects.

In his last pose, Rogers' hands and legs were bound with leather strips. He wore a dress and a wig. Police believed the strap slipped from his shoulders to his neck.

The landlord discovered Rogers' death after receiving a telegram from the victim's wife, Anna, who, with her son Gene, 3, had been visiting relatives in Pittsburgh since Saturday. Her telegram said she had received no answer to repeated telephone calls to her husband and wanted the landlord to see if everything was all right.

Rogers worked in the laboratory of the National Advisory committee on Aeronautics, police said.

Sells Autos For Penny; Slight Loss

TOLEDO —(AP)— Used car market flooded? Look what's happening in Toledo:

Nick Rapton, used car dealer, is planning a new twist in the sale of used autos today—a one-cent sale.

He said he will place on sale six autos at their "normal price. Each of the six cars will be accompanied by a companion auto which will go to the purchaser for an additional penny.

Each of the cars has a motor. Rapton said he was "taking a loss" on most of the cars.

Fight Looms In State Legislature

Will Decide On Colored Oleo, FEPC

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Bitter battles on the floors of both houses of the Ohio legislature were in the making today for the coming ninth week of the regular biennial session.

Senate members may tangle Tuesday on the question of colored oleo. And the lower House probably will engage in hot debate on Wednesday when the bill to ban discrimination in employment is to come up for a vote.

Senate Majority Leader Margaret Mahoney, D., Cuyahoga, said the upper chamber may consider one of its controversial measures on Thursday. She added that the Rules committee would make the final decision Monday night.

Both houses of the legislature are in adjournment over the weekend.

The bill, sponsored by initiative petition, to permit the manufacture and sale of colored oleo in Ohio was recommended for passage ten days ago. Senator Mahoney said it was the most likely of controversial measures to be considered early next week.

Rep. Ed Witmer, D., Stark, chairman of the House Labor committee, said his group's recommendation that a bill to set up a fair employments practices commission be approved would be given to the lower house on Monday.

He said the FEPC measure would probably be voted upon on Wednesday. Key legislators give it a little better than even chance of passage.

'Lone Wolf' Howls Way Into Jail

ASHTABULA — (INS)— Nearby Jefferson's "Lone Wolf" won't be prowling around the village at night anymore.

Ashtabula county police said they captured a 23-year-old West Virginian who allegedly marked "Lone Wolf" in chalk on desks and floors of the places he ransacked.

The sheriff believes the captured culprit is the same man who broke into the county farm bureau office and the New York Central station in Jefferson Monday night and left his "Lone Wolf" mark.

Reds Move To Norway 'Line'

HELSINKE, Finland — (AP) — Russia has moved additional troops to Norway's Arctic border, according to an authoritative Finnish source.

The informant said the troop movement was observed last week and apparently was in connection with Norway's stand on the proposed North Atlantic pact with the United States.

The informant said there was no sign of similar troop movements to the Finnish border. Norway has a 450-mile border with Finland in the north, also.

ESCAPE RED MENACE

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Four American and 12 Chinese members of the Sisters of Charity Catholic order arrived here last night after fleeing China because of the communist advance.

Answers 'Stump' Threat

Truman Sparks New Dispute

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman's notice that he may stump the country for his legislative program drew a "hop to it" response from Republicans today.

Mr. Truman, in the down-to-earth lingo he used successfully in last year's campaign, told enthusiastic Democrats at Jefferson-Jackson day dinners last night that Republicans are trying to "cripple" labor unions and hold minimum wages to a "starvation level."

And the capacity crowds cheered as he declared that "special interests" on Capitol Hill may compel him to board a train again soon "to tell the people how their government is getting on."

The Republicans, the President charged, want to destroy the farm price support program and force upon the government a "do nothing" policy which would let the American economy "slide into a depression."

To this, most Republicans had one answer:

Let the President first find out how he stands with his own party; then let him appeal to the people.

Senator Brewster of Maine, chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign committee, said the President seems to forget that he has a Democratic Congress.

'WORSE THAN 80th'

"What's become of his majority in both houses?" Brewster asked. "The 81st Congress must be worse than he said the 80th was."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said Mr. Truman is all wrong in attacking the Taft-Hartley labor law. Taft said he thinks Mr. Truman will find that out in any check of the country.

Senator Morse (R-Ore.) remarked that if the Truman program has bogged down, as the President seemed to indicate, it is "because there is no united support on the Democratic side of the aisle."

"He is trying to cover up the split in his own party," Morse said.

That split still was apparent, despite Mr. Truman's surprise victory last November.

Democrats at the dinners showed their approval of the speech by applause. Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) especially liked the President's criticism of those who oppose repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

"Every word the President says has been confirmed in the Senate Labor committee meetings," Pepper said.

However, only eight of 21 southern Democratic senators who oppose Mr. Truman's civil rights program were officially recorded as present for the dinners, held in the Mayflower and Statler hotels.

Blames Love For Actions

WASHINGTON — (INS) — A strange tale of love in the strong-hold of nazidom today as a major point in "Axis Sally's" fight to escape a possible death sentence on treason charges.

With her trial in recess until Monday, the jury of seven men and five women have a long weekend to mull over her assertion that she made propaganda broadcasts for the nazis, but did it all for a man, with no intention of betraying her country.

In a dramatic, sometimes tearful story told from the federal court witness stand, "Sally"—Mildred E. Gillar—identified the man in her life as Prof. Max Otto Koischwitz. A former member of the faculty of Hunter college, in New York, who became a German radio big shot, Koischwitz died in 1944.

She said she loved Koischwitz and that it was he who "prevailed upon" her to spread propaganda to American troops at the battlefront and their folks at home.

GOURMET'S OYSTER STEW depends on the use of dairy foods—butter, fresh milk and undiluted evaporated milk—for that epicurean creamy tast that gourmets call the real thing. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and ½ teaspoon salt and stir until bubbling. Add 2 dozen oysters with their juice and let simmer for 5 minutes or until plump. Heat 2 cups milk and 2 cups evaporated milk with 1 tablespoon butter until scalding hot. Add to the oysters, stir to mix and serve in deep hot soup plates—4 servings.

Melt yellow cheese (cut into cubes or grated) in condensed tomato soup and serve over sliced hard-cooked egg and toast for a Sunday night supper dish.

From Airplanes to Pheasants

Ohio Purchaser Rapidly Catching On

COLUMBUS — (AP) — John W. Bush doesn't carry a market basket when he goes shopping for the state of Ohio. He needs a whole freight train.

Bush may spend a half a million dollars in one day for everything from airplanes to day-old pheasants.

The state's purchasing agent never knows when he walks into his office whether his daily shopping expedition will take him into a factory for steam boilers or a pharmaceutical laboratory for castor oil.

Bush has held the job hardly a month, but he is fast catching on to the lingo used in the business.

Thus, when an order came through from the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield for "No. 1 calf," he placed an order for shoe leather. A clerk in the office wanted to assign it to the dead animal class.

Another order from the London prison farm called for "20 gross of tin pants buttons." He put in the order for tin buttons not tin pants.

On his desk were samples of red bandanna handkerchiefs. One institution had just ordered 4,000 yards of bandanna material. Also on his desk was an order for $55,000 worth of bed sheeting material.

Bush buys soap by the tank car. Right now requisitions are coming in for seed potatoes from those institutions where farming is extensive. One ordered 1,800 bushels of seed potatoes, another 1,750.

Food, coal and clothing for the 26 state welfare and penal institutions make up the biggest items of purchase. It takes about 300,000 tons of coal a year to keep the state's wards warm and funish power and light at the institutions.

The Conservation department may order a motor boat today and next week order a thousand day-old pheasants, until the baby pheasants are 72 hours old they may be shipped without food or water. One time the purchasing department received an order for 1,000 chicken hens "without lice." They were to be used as brooders at one of the institutions.

Study Effects Of Comics

R. Y. Davis, teacher at Johnny Appleseed junior high school, and chairman of the committee to study the effects of comic books, radio and movies on youth for the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be in Columbus today and Saturday for the third in a series of meetings on the subject.

Davis will preside at sessions to be held at the Deshler-Wallick hotel, with an open hearing on Saturday morning. Experts on child psychology and school officials will speak at the meeting.

The Columbus meeting will be the third held for a discussion of the committee work. The others were held recently at Toledo and Akron.

Two U. S. Servicemen Given Life In Rape

TOKYO —(INS)— Two members of the U. S. occupation forces in Japan were sentenced by a court martial yesterday to life terms at hard labor for the rape of a Japanese woman.

The men are Air Force Sgt. Robert W. Mickle of Conneaut, O., and Pvt. Calvin W. Tice of Hazel Park, Mich.

Tools Stolen At Lake Site

Theft of $69 worth of tools and materials from the high-lift pumping station of the Clear Fork dam project on Cook road, was reported to police Wednesday .Also reported stolen was a suit of clothes from a West Fourth street home.

The pumping station theft, believed to have occurred during the week end, involved two wooden doors and hardware, one wheelbarrow, and one digging bar. The theft was reported by John Cunning of the Richland Construction company.

Charles Perry, 32½ West Fourth street, reported yesterday that a suit of clothes, valued at $55, was taken from his room Tuesday.

Ex-Mansfielder Wins Recognition

A former Mansfield resident, Russell Jelliff, and Mrs. Jelliff, were honored Wednesday in Cleveland by Judith Anderson, currently playing there. The Jelliffs were given a copy of the Robinson Jeffers version of the Greek tragedy "Medea" in recognition of their work at Karamu House, the famed Cleveland settlement home, and in observance of National Brotherhood Week.

Charges 'Mike' Case Swings Sentiment to Murder Suspect

Prosecution Questions Court Clerk

Attorney Claims Police 'Listened'

LIMA — (AP) — Police Chief Kermit L. Westbay said yesterday Allen county's "hidden microphone" incident had turned public support away from the police department to a murder case defendant, but that "..... it cannot change the facts."

The chief made the statement at a hearing which opened yesterday before a three-judge court, in the cases of Sheriff William R. Dailey, and Lima police detectives J. Robert Neely and Bernard Burkart. They are charged with criminal contempt of court.

The three are accused of hiding a microphone in a jury room which Attorney C. W. Long had used to confer with his client, Richard E. Snyder, charged with the slaying of his wife.

Chief Westbay, one of five witnesses called by the prosecution, denied having any personal knowledge of the microphone and said none of the defendants discussed it with him. He told of assigning Neely and Burkart to the murder investigation.

On cross-examination by Attorney O. W. Hess, counsel for the three defendants, the chief said "publicity has changed public support from the police department to Snyder—but it cannot change the facts."

Attorney Long testified he felt his conferences with Snyder in the sheriff's office "were being listened to" and for that reason he had asked the court for use of the jury room on Jan. 17. He said on one occasion after a conference with Snyder in the sheriff's office, his client was questioned on matters they had discussed.

Long said he saw Burkart in the courthouse on the 17th after his conference with Snyder. On cross examination by Hess, Long replied "yes" when asked it he felt anyone was trying to "double cross him and his client."

Other witnesses included Miss Marilyn Miller, Common Pleas Court clerk. She testified she had seen Neely and Burkart around the court house the week of Jan. 17, on a number of occasions. On Jan. 17, she said, the day of the Snyder and Long conference, both Neely and Burkart were in and out of her office.

Charges against the law enforcement officers were brought by a committee of the Allen county Bar association which conducted an investigation of the case. John Davison, representing the committee, said in an opening statement yesterday one of the detectives bought a microphone before the installation was discovered. All three had been seen in the courthouse just prior to the installation, he said.

Judges Moran B. Jenkins of Allen county, Chester Pendleton of Hancock county and H. E. Culbertson of Ashland county are hearing the case.

Price Index Drops; GM Wages Cut

Earnings Based On U. S. Statistics

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The government reported today that the cost of living dropped three-tenths of one per cent in January for its fourth consecutive monthly decline. The drop will mean a pay cut for 338,000 General Motors employes.

The wages of these GM workers are tied to the Labor department's cost-of-living index. When the index goes up, wages are boosted. When it goes down, wages are cut. Adjustments are made every three months.

The company said the latest decline will mean a cut of two cents an hour in the wages of 270,000 hourly-paid workers, and of $10 a month in the pay of 68,000 salaried employes. These reductions are effective on March 1 for the hourly workers on June 1 for the salaried employes.

The company estimated that the cuts will reduce its annual wage bill by $19,392,000. But it said GM employes will still be getting 12 cents an hour more than they did last May, when the present contract was signed.

In reporting the January decline, the Labor department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said its index is now 2.1 per cent below the all-time high of last August. But, it said, the index is still 1.2 per cent above January 1948, and 28.2 per cent above June, 1946.

The bureau said the January drop was due primarily to a decrease in the price of clothing and house furnishings.

The General Motors pay cut affects members of the United Auto Workers (CIO), the United Electrical Workers (CIO) and 17 other labor unions representing employes in GM plants.

Under their contract, the workers will receive a three-cent-an-hour permanent increase next May 29, at the start of the second year of their two-year agreement. The next quarterly cost of living adjustment will be made on the basis of the government's April 15 index.

Files Suit For $75,000

The Lake Shore Coach company was sued for $75,000 today in common pleas court by Arthur J. Spayde, of Shelby, contending he received serious and permanent injuries when a Lake Shore bus overturned March 20, 1948.

In his petition, Spayde says the bus turned over on State Route 21, two miles north of Shelby, and that he struck his head against a luggage rack and was then thrown against a seat and to the floor.

He says the fact he weighed 300 pounds at the time aggravated the injuries he received in the accident. Since the accident he has been unable to work, he said.

Spayde operated a grocery and meat market in Shelby.

He charges that the company's driver was careless and negligent. The plaintiff's attorneys are Carl J. Gugler, of Galion, and C. H. Henkel.

In another suit, Charles Mishey of Bellville, asked a judgment of $119 from the Bellville Foundries for merchandise and services. He runs a filling station business, according to the petition filed by Attorney Carl Swadener.

'Big Layoff' Rumor Hit

Furloughing at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant is "practically nil," company officials told the News-Journal today.

The statement from the company followed up rumors that "approximately 100" workers would be laid off next week.

Company officials said the "normal one to two per cent" fluctuation of employment is continuing.

"We are about to go into the selling season on appliances and it is difficult to tell what the future holds", officials said. "It is our opinion, however, that 1949 will be good for employment here."

Approximately two weeks ago, between 75 and 100 workers on small appliance lines at the plant were shifted to major appliance lines. Refrigerators are now being manufactured on a six-day a week schedule.

Marion Police Named In Suit

MARION — (AP) — Four members of the Police department here are the targets of a Marion woman's $20,000 law suit charging false arrest and imprisonment.

The defendents are Chief William E. Marks, Captain Louis E. Kirts and Patrolmen Robert W. Simmons and L. Carl McDaniel. The suit was filed in common pleas court by Mrs. Gladys Marie Revels of Marion.

Mrs. Revels in her petition claims she was taken from her automobile Jan. 10, questioned at the police station and lodged in the city prison on a charge of disorderly conduct. She said she was waiting for the return of her husband, Jewel W Revels, at the time.

After being held by police for eight hours Mrs. Revels was released and the police charges were dropped.

The trial began Monday. It is the second of a series of five being held by the Army.

Budget to Fit Drop In Revenues

WARNING by Governor Frank J. Lausche that prospective state income from taxes this year will not meet all of the demands of various groups asking for increases in present allocations may well be accepted as a part of preparation for a period of recession, the advance indications of which are already observable.

Inclination toward overspending of what is called "public money" has been so greatly encouraged by the federal government that states and minor subdivisions have in some instances followed suit to a dangerous extent.

One of Mr. Lausche's pronouncements, immediately after his return to the post of governor, was that no additional taxes would be imposed, and he now faces the task of working within income, which estimates place at substantially less than last year.

Removal of retail sales tax on purchases up to 40 cents is being blamed for considerable reduction in this source of revenue, but a suggestion that the tax be re-imposed on items of 10 cents, and above, was not received with favor.

According to Governor Lausche's calculations there will be no more than a margin of four million dollars out of which to meet demands totaling more than $100,000,000—which makes it plain that economies must be practiced or taxes increased . . . and there is appearance of quite general agreement with the governor's stand against raising taxes.

Advance Toward Peace In Holy Land

SIGNING of the armistice between Israel and Egypt is one of the brightest events in the news since the end of the war. Apparently it paves the way for peace between the Israeli and all of the Arab states and it is a de facto victory for the United Nations.

The repeated efforts of the U.N. to achieve peace in the hotbed of the Middle East had failed so often that the world had begun to shrug its shoulders at any new reports of a possible settlement. But the shrug was not lighthearted, because always there was the undercurrent of fear that the antagonism at the far end of the Mediterranean might some day set flame to the cold war.

Now, terms, seemingly acceptable to both sides, have been worked out with the assistance of Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.N. negotiator. A clash, that was rooted in centuries of hate and earnest convictions as to territorial rights, has been settled.

True, there was some fighting. But the point is: the fighting did not settle the dispute. Agreement was reached by arbitration. Terms were not imposed by victors on vanquished.

Here—as the world knows but has so seldom been able to practice—is the way global peace must eventually be achieved.

Investigation Reveals Relief Chiselers

NEED for a checkup on relief cases, in order to prevent chiseling by persons who do not really qualify for public financial help, is being recognized in other cities as well as in Mansfield and Richland county.

In Detroit, for instance, where 13,000 cases are currently receiving welfare aid, an investigation of 453 of them revealed that almost two-thirds were "questionable."

Misrepresentation or fraud appeared in a high percentage of the cases investigated by a committee appointed by the mayor of Detroit, and an immediate investigation of all relief cases was recommended.

Cases reported as "doubtful" were those in which investigators had not fully checked on undisclosed income, possible support from relatives, or transfer to state or federal assistance categories.

Indications are that a more careful checkup of Richland county relief cases is now being worked toward, with a view to revealing possible instances in which relief payments are being made to persons not entitled to them, and also to disclose any families that need relief but have not applied for it.

Latin America Finds Peaceful Way

LATIN AMERICA has come a long way in the preservation of peace by means of international organization. Within the memory of all but the youngest Americans, it was axiomatic that there almost always was a war going on somewhere in Latin America.

Some of the Latin American countries still seem to be subject to frequent internal bursts of shooting, but they no longer shoot casually at each other. The recent disagreement between Costa Rica and Nicaragua is a case in point. A civil incident in a border town in Costa Rica led that nation to charge that it had been invaded from Nicaragua.

But the charge, instead of being fought out between the two neighbor countries, was taken to the Council of the Organization of American States, which duly investigated, reported its findings, and effected a peaceful settlement.

It is being demonstrated that international organization will work on a hemisphere scale. Probably there is no reason why it will not work on a world scale when methods are improved.

As the Leavenworth (Kans.) Times explains it: "One reason a lot of people don't stop to think before they speak is because they don't want to lose their place in the conversation."

Now that the Philadelphia transit strike has ended, traits of "the City of Brotherly Love" may again be expected to show through.

What Some Other People Are Saying

CHARLES SEYMOUR, president of Yale university: "Most men of my generation are conscious of our rich ignorance of American history. We are fearful lest those who follow us fail to receive better guidance in appreciating the factors that have made American life significant in the history of the world."

* * *

DR. HOMER P. RAINEY, president of Stephens college, Columbia, Mo.: "Some people warn us that we'll lose the fight against Soviet ideas unless we employ Soviet methods of repression. This is equivalent to telling us that democracy can save itself from being murdered only by committing suicide."

* * *

CHRISTOPHER P. MAYHEW, British undersecretary of state: "The purpose of Marshall aid is to set us (England) free from dependence on America. We have not the slightest intention of modifying our economic, our social or our political plan in order to qualify for aid."

Washington Calling

Conflicting Predictions

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE ECONOMIC medicine men are anxiously studying the signs and portents to try to determine just what is happening to us. They come up with strange words such as "disinflation," which may or may not mean the same thing as deflation.

Inevitably, of course, politics enters in. Within the Truman administration the belief is growing that Republicans in a kind of secret alliance with big business are trying to talk the country into a depression.

This belief is shared by important officials directly concerned with fiscal policy.

Contributing to that belief is the confidential report of a waiter who served a luncheon of top-level Republicans meeting with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey during Dewey's recent visit to Washington.

The waiter reported that the conferring Republicans agreed the one sure way to defeat the Democrats in 1950 and '52 was a depression which would bear Truman's name in the same way the depression beginning in 1929 carried the Hoover label.

You can see the clear line of a political division over the significance of the present economic trend. To administration Democrats and most of their economists recent reports of unemployment in certain areas are indicative merely of a few soft spots in the economy.

They quickly point to the fact that more people are working than ever before as proof that the trend is still inflationary.

But the Republicans in Congress make speeches predicting depression and insisting the preliminary manifestations are already with us. A tax increase, they argue, would only serve to speed up the decline. They are counting on signs of depression to block not alone the administration's proposed $4,000,000,000 tax increase but the whole anti-inflation program with its standby price controls.

In one arena the contest between inflationists and deflationists has been going on for some time. That is the Federal Reserve Board, which was given power by Congress last summer to control consumer credit.

* * *

"Easing Up" Probable.

FOCUS of the battle is the board's Regulation W. Regulation W, which became effective last September, establishes the ratio of installment credit to purchase price. On automobiles, for example, the buyer must make a down payment of one-third of the price and pay the balance in 18 months.

The pressure to change Regulation W comes from several sources. Some automobile manufacturers, conspicuously Kaiser-Frazer, say it must be modified. They claim that it discriminates against lower income families who would like to buy new cars but are prevented by Regulation W.

Dealers who find it harder to sell washing machines, radios and other durable consumer goods are also agitating for a change in the ruling. At least, they say, extend the time of payments from 18 to 24 months. Pressure has come, too, from second-hand car dealers.

Within the Federal Reserve Board the chief defender of Regulation is Marriner S. Eccles. Eccles, it will be recalled, stepped down as chairman of the board when President Truman named Thomas B. McCabe, a Philadelphia manufacturer, in his place. As a member, however, he retains a potent influence and he is allergic to what he considers political pressures aimed at altering economic policy.

Indications are that a majority of the board will eventually decide to let the buyer take more time to pay for his auto or his washing machine. That is the easy way out of the political pressure building up from day to day.

But those who remember the crash of 1929—the beginning of that "Republican depression"—cannot forget the bubble of installment credit of the late 'twenties. That was not a sound base for prosperity nor is it today. The first step—from 18 to 24 months—is bound to be followed by more pressure for more relaxation.

Those Disliked Controls

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON—The program that President Truman recently submitted to Congress for continued controls of all sorts of prices, credit, wages, and for allocation of still scarce commodities, has provoked outcries that the administration aims at a completely planned and controlled economy.

Republicans have been harshest, which is subject to the usual discount for political attacks. Democrats, with a few exceptions, have been strangely silent, and politics is a factor there.

Business, likewise, has been critical in public statements and through representatives who have appeared before the joint economic committee in Congress.

The program does call to a degree for a controlled economy in some respects, much more than anyone would like in our country normally, and much more certainly than President Truman, himself, and his advisers, would like or want.

To attribute to him motives ascribed in some extreme political attacks is not only unjust, but somewhat silly. He is not that sort of person or president. He has no power complexes, as far as anybody who knows him has found out.

The big mistake is that the criticism goes to effects rather than causes. The real reason for controls, and it is very simple, is the huge military outlay which requires a great quantity of all sorts of production.

This is in competition with the requirements for civilian goods. To meet both demands as equitably as possible, it is essential to have controls to provide fair distribution. Because of the shortages that exist still in some lines, which runs up prices under the old law of supply and demand, it is also necessary to have price controls.

An armed economy, as we should have learned by our war experience, can not be a free economy. An armed economy must, from its very nature and its very demands, be a controlled economy. We are, in effect, living in a military state today. It permeates the fabric of our government, our economy, and our thinking.

* * *

Considering Needs.

ON TOP of military requirements are demands for the European recovery program, which itself means commodities of all sorts from our supplies. The latter, however, could be filled without too much strain if it weren't for the extra 15 billions for military needs beyond the five billions for ERP. Both will be continued in the years immediately ahead.

All of this makes for an unbalanced economy that calls for constant watchfulness and regulation.

It does no good, therefore, to call President Truman names. It accomplishes nothing to criticize the controls, which are effects, unless the critic wants to take the responsibility of going behind them.

This leads him, first, to our foreign policy, in which there may be ground for criticism and, back of that, to the chief influence in our foreign policy, which is the tense situation in the world today that has caused every nation that can afford it, and some that can't, to maintain an armed camp, even as are we.

When we get back there, we are only dismayed and confounded by man's inability to live with man, and his reliance on all the strange machines we are building today, all of us all over the world, with which to strike at each other, over the ground, over the water, under the water, in the air.

French Visitors Meet American People

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The historic journey of 49 French "40 men-8 horses" boxcars through the U. S. A. is just about over. Except where heavy snow delayed the ceremony the boxcars have all been delivered.

The French committee of railroadmen, who spent months collecting the gifts that filled these cars, did not have the pleasure of seeing President Truman.

Though urged to attend, Truman went to a concert a few blocks away from where they stood in the cold, presenting their gesture of friendship to the people of Washington.

Nor did George Allen, the assistant secretary of state who annually asks Congress for several million dollars to promote cultural relations with the rest of the world, take the trouble to go out in the cold to greet the visiting Frenchmen.

However, Vice President Barkley together with Senators Vandenberg and Connally with Attorney General Tom Clark and Undersecretary of State Jimmy Webb were out in the cold to greet the French.

* * *

Did Selves Proud.

A GREAT many governors, mayors, and patriotic citizens were far wiser and more hospitable than the state department. Governor Tom Mabry of New Mexico sent his patrol cars across the desert to bring the French committee to Santa Fe; Governor Frank Carlson got up early in the morning and rode with them all through Kansas.

Governors Scott of North Carolina and Clements of Kentucky threw open their homes. Governors Gibson of Vermont, Dever of Massachusetts and Pastore of Rhode Island staged special dinners and lunches. Governor Warren of California traveled all across his state to greet them.

And so on—the hospitality list of the American people is too long to mention here and the net result is that these Frenchmen are going home enthusiastic rooters for the U. S. A. They did not get to know Washington officialdom but they did get to know the American people.

Most of our official ambassadors give dinners and cocktail parties to which the upper crust of government are invited but it's the peoule of European countries, not the upper crust, who are deciding issues today.

And while Secretary of State Acheson was so busy negotiating a North Atlantic pact that he could not greet the visiting Frenchmen he overlooked the fact that no treaty is worth more than the paper it's written on unless public opinion backs it up, and that arms shipped to Europe may fall into the hands of an enemy unless the men of Europe are ready to stand up and use those arms.

That is one of the most important points missed by the high-up planners of the state department and the pentagon. They are so far up in the stratosphere, so busy writing pacts and shipping arms to Europe, that they forget about people.

* * *

Friendship Foundation.

THE government of France which signs the North Atlantic Pact may be out of office the following day. But the people of France go on forever.

And as long as the French people stand with the American people we build on a foundation far more solid than pacts or treaties.

What most Americans don't realize is that Moscow, up until a year ago, had made great inroads upon the French and Italian people. Approximately one-third of them voted communist.

Moscow prides itself on having a hold on people—all its propaganda is directed to that goal, not to governments. Despite this, 6,000,000 French people—in answer to the Friendship Train—organized a train of gratitude to the United States. They did this without any inspiration from their government on a purely people-to-people basis.

Stalin probably would have given his left arm had the French people sent such a train to Russia, because he specializes in winning over people. But the French didn't send it to him. They sent their train to the American people instead.

And that's why, despite the cold-shoulder given the Frenchmen by President Truman and the state department, the receptions accorded them by the Mayor Joe Smiths of Oakland, California, and the Mayor William O'Dwyers of New York and the Mayor George Welches of Grand Rapids and the Mayor Fletcher Bowrons of Los Angeles and the Mayor Jim Curleys of Boston and all the others were so important.

For they saw the importance of this people-to-people government and they, together with the governors and a large part of the rest of the American people, gave the French the rousing welcome they so well deserved and will always remember.

Assignment: America

Texas Still Uncrowded

By INEZ ROBB

HOUSTON — Ho, hum! Another day, another million—And it's still here for the asking, in the opinion of Glenn McCarthy, the newest and shiniest of Texas' crop of 1949ers.

This Texan, worth 100 millions and up, believes any American boy can still back up the truck and carry away the same kind of fortune that he, the McCarthy, has carted out of oil and a dozen other enterprises.

The idea that America is no longer the unparalleled land of opportunity is, in McCarthy's opinion, a lot of communist propaganda.

Such false preachments make McCarthy so mad he has organized himself a Hollywood movie company to produce films to combat this defeatism.

"There is more opportunity in this country than ever before," he declared. "More than we have discovered or dreamed up till now."

For a taciturn man, who never wastes a word when a grunt will do, this amounts to a pre-oration.

His first Hollywood declaration of faith in the American future will have its premier here on St. Patrick's day, when McCarthy is simultaneously opening the newest, biggest and best hotel in the southwest, the Shamrock.

The hotel, a $22,000,000 luxury deal, will have an opening to rival any Hollywood wake, complete with kleig lights and a trainload of movie stars imported especially for the occasion.

* * *

Keeps Branching Out.

THE FIRST McCarthy independent movie production, "The Green Promise," is the story of "any American farm," McCarthy says.

This super-duper hotel is opening with a tremendous dinner March 17. It is symptomatic of the life and high times of Houston that the $42 seats for the dinner were snapped up as soon as they were put on the market, but that it has been most difficult to get rid of the cheap $33 seats.

McCarthy, 41, who looks like Errol Flynn (and who is just as handy with his fists), is buying himself a diversified empire with his oil millions. He has recently purchased a steel mill in Detroit and a $20,000,000 chemical plant at Winnie, Texas.

Lest he get in a rut, McCarthy has purchased a Houston radio station, KXYZ, and filed application for a video license. He also has latched onto a Houston skyscraper.

McCarthy also owns and operates a publishing company that produces fourteen weekly community papers in the Houston area with a circulation of 114,000. Houstonians have a hunch this is a prelude to a daily paper here. He also published a farm weekly.

Nor do the boy wonder's varied interests end there. McCarthy is a director of Eastern Air Lines and of the National Aeronautic Association.

In 1948, McCarthy's three entries in the Bendix air race finished first, second and fourth. He maintains two planes for his personal use: a DC-3 and a smaller craft.

When the chores of his empire weigh too heavily on McCarthy, he has a 15,000 acre ranch—cattle, of course,—to which he retires at Uvalde, with Jack Garner as neighbor.

He is also blessed with a beautiful wife and five of the handsomest children I have ever seen. A photomural, almost life size, of his wife and children hangs on one wall of his office.

An even larger photomural, this one in color, shows McCarthy sleek and handsome in hunting garb on his Uvalde acres.

Verily, his cup runneth over, and with pure gold.

And, in parting, McCarthy assured me that what he has done, any other American kid with git-up-and-go can duplicate.

"We're not getting the squeak out of the hog," McCarthy put it succinctly.

Farmer's Diary

About Capt. Cockley

By CALVIN A. BYERS

(Contributed by Town Crier.)

This is the story of Capt. Cockley—it was his true name and he came from northern Ohio to a beautiful broad rich valley where a small cross-roads settlement had started and a railroad newly run through.

On the park at the cross-roads he built a sizeable general store. At the railroad he erected a brick steam-powered flour mill. Money he had saved or was able to borrow financed this pioneer business venture. A rich and beautiful farm was also added to his enterprises.

In his store a much respected man spent most of his life to build up trade and make the place prosper. In his flour mill six to a dozen men were regularly employed. A cooper shop adjoining made the clean, woody-smelling barrels in which the excellent flour was shipped out. Farmers from all around wagon-hauled their grain to the mill and elevator, some for storage, some to exchange for the good flour, corn meal or cow bran.

The fog horn voice of the Cockley steam boiler spelled out each noon, the weather forecast. This forecast came in over the B. & O. telegraph lines. Just at 12 noon people, afar and near, "took heed and listened" and set their clocks and watches.

The dozen men who worked for Cockley (only his intimates addressed him as 'Bill') made very small wages as compared with present pay. They bought small neat homes, raised happy families, all of whom as I remember, turned out well, if not overly successful.

When slack times came—as they did—the men were "laid off" to work at odd jobs for farmers roundabout—or they lived on what they had, or had saved. They always had work when the mill ran.

The austere and gentlemanly owner had put up all the money for his various enterprises, taking the risk of their success or failure. When times were tough and his money and investments stood idle, like all the rest he had to "pull in his belt." His men, contented to work for him, had only the welfare of themselves and families to consider. All they had learned, or had, was due to their employer.

That was real "free enterprise" in the early days and "in the rough." Today if Capt. Cockley—he was a captain in the Civil War—wanted to do business he would have to get government permit to sell stock in his venture, mortgage his very soul if he wanted to borrow from a bank.

His income would be taxed as well as that of all the men he employed. If he made "excess profit" that too would be taxed. The state would set up rules for safety and health of the employes and there would be regulations on his method of selling and advertising.

A union would tell him whom to hire and fire and what wages he must pay—in short he might hesitate to do anything but hide his money in the attic trunk. (Years ago the mill burned down and Capt. Cockley died.) So, slowly, the country inches along toward government planning from womb to tomb, while "Uncle Joe" in Moscow grins.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

MR. TRUMAN'S $100-a-plate speech won't sizzle as long as his two dollar ad libs of Tuesday night.

* * *

The President still is getting reaction to those words spoken in anger. . . . Yet with a SOB in them for Drew Pearson.

* * *

But it seems so odd. . . . President Auriol so grateful for Pearson's "Friendship Train" and Truman so critical of his "Merry Go Round."

* * *

In fact Harry has set out to prove that 50 million Frenchmen can be wrong about Pearson.

* * *

But I liked the way he absolved columnists and commentators and is taking the rap for his own appointments.

A combination of scrambled eggs and fried cactus is a popular dish in Middle America.

Dave Boone Says:

HERBERT HOOVER, the country's No. 1 optimist, is still striving for efficiency in government. He now proposes that the entire state department be reorganized in such a way that it will frequently know what it's doing.

* * *

The present setup is horizontal instead of from the top down, as in any well-regulated business. There are so many undersecretaries and assistants that you can't tell them without a program, even when numbered.

* * *

"The people deserve the best organization and skill, says the Hoover report, "and the President deserves the advantages of a sound, efficient, smooth-working organization." In other words the need all through government departments is for a team, not a carousel crew.

* * *

But I doubt Mr. Hoover will get far. You can get fast action in developing new SNAFU, muddling up a given job and increasing inefficiency in government, but getting anywhere with a plan to do things competently is another matter.

Red Conspiracy In the U. S. A.

Film Expert Makes Error, Chambers' Facts Verified

By ROBERT E. STRIPLING
(Edited by Bob Considine)

A somewhat better idea than jumping out a window occurred to me on the day we were told by an Eastman Kodak official that our micro-filmed "pumpkin papers" had not been made by his company until 1946. Our entire case was built around our contention (verified by the dates on the secret documents we suspected had been stolen) that the documents had been taken and photographed by a Red spy ring in the late 1930's.

The better idea, I figured, was to sit down and think.

Then I got downright mad at Whittaker Chambers, who had given us the "pumpkin papers" several nights before, and whose

27th Article In a Series

testimony in the espionage case had led us to this sorry climax. In fact, I was too mad at him to trust myself on the phone, so when he answered, I asked Nixon to do the talking.

"Mr. Chambers," Nixon siad, controlling his voice well. "We've just had an expert look over the microfilm and he tells us it was not manufactured until 1946."

"Impossible," Chambers answered, quietly.

"What IS this?" Nixon demanded of him. "What do you have to say?"

"I have nothing to say except that Fate is just against us," Chambers replied. This was, to my mind, the greatest understatement of 1948.

We were just heading out of Nixon's office to face the grueling ordeal of a press conference when his phone rang. It was for me.

"Mr. Stripling, this is Mr. Lewis of Eastman," the voice said. "I checked with Rochester after I got back to the office, and it seems we have made a little mistake. Those films you showed me were made in 1937."

I kept Chambers a long time that night, going over everything he had ever told us, getting his explanation of what had happened to the "pumpkin papers" during the ten years that intervened, and I kept repeating, "Look me in the eye. Are you sure you have nothing else to show us? I am quitting this work and I don't want to leave anything undone."

OTHER SOURCES

The State department, Chambers pointed out, had been an important source for him but not the only one. As we said in our report:

"Chambers testified that between 1932 and 1938 he obtained documents from the State department, the Bureau of Standards, the Aberdeen Proving ground, and certain information from the navy; also that the same ring with which he worked got vital information from key United States industries."

It was Chamber's contention that sometimes copies of the documents from the State department were made on a typewriter in Hiss's home. We later uncovered several bits of typewritten matter from the Equitable Life Insurance company which experts said was produced by the same machine, and the F. B. I., later identified our samples of the product of that typewriter as having been typed by the same machine which retyped some of the secret papers retrieved from Chambers.

Much of what we learned we kept to ourselves, so as not to impede or influence the grand jury hearings running simultaneously in New York. I still believe we conducted our hearings with fine discretion. But when Rep. Nixon took the microfilms to New York to show to the grand jury, he was served with a subpoena as he carried them toward the jury room.

And despite the fact that we had unearthed and revealed the "pumpkin papers," and had brought attention to the 65 documents which the Justice Department had obtained earlier and apparently ignored, our activities were branded again by Mr. Truman as a "red herring."

Hiss, as you know, was indicted.

I have no way of knowing what took place behind the closed doors of the grand jury hearing Hiss, beyond the bare announcement that it considered him a liar, a charge which he will now be given every opportunity to disprove in court.

Drew Pearson, who once helped put me in the army, for which I am physically grateful, has subsequently said on the air (and it has not been denied that in the final stages of his long appearance on the grand jury's witness stand Hiss accused Chambers of being a rejected pervert out for revenge. That, to me, seems like the most outlandish charge imaginable — and I believe I know Chambers as well as any other man in the country.

As for Hiss and the others, we must await the verdict of their peers.

(TOMORROW: In his concluding article, Stripling retraces his decade of experience with the House un-American Activities committee and states his hopes for the future of such work.)

Budget to Fit Drop In Revenues

WARNING by Governor Frank J. Lausche that prospective state income from taxes this year will not meet all of the demands of various groups asking for increases in present allocations may well be accepted as a part of preparation for a period of recession, the advance indications of which are already observable.

Inclination toward overspending of what is called "public money" has been so greatly encouraged by the federal government that states and minor subdivisions have in some instances followed suit to a dangerous extent.

One of Mr. Lausche's pronouncements, immediately after his return to the post of governor, was that no additional taxes would be imposed, and he now faces the task of working within income, which estimates place at substantially less than last year.

Removal of retail sales tax on purchases up to 40 cents is being blamed for considerable reduction in this source of revenue, but a suggestion that the tax be re-imposed on items of 10 cents, and above, was not received with favor.

According to Governor Lausche's calculations there will be no more than a margin of four million dollars out of which to meet demands totaling more than $100,000,000—which makes it plain that economies must be practiced or taxes increased . . . and there is appearance of quite general agreement with the governor's stand against raising taxes.

Advance Toward Peace In Holy Land

SIGNING of the armistice between Israel and Egypt is one of the brightest events in the news since the end of the war. Apparently it paves the way for peace between the Israeli and all of the Arab states and it is a de facto victory for the United Nations.

The repeated efforts of the U.N. to achieve peace in the hotbed of the Middle East had failed so often that the world had begun to shrug its shoulders at any new reports of a possible settlement. But the shrug was not lighthearted, because always there was the undercurrent of fear that the antagonism at the far end of the Mediterranean might some day set flame to the cold war.

Now, terms, seemingly acceptable to both sides, have been worked out with the assistance of Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.N. negotiator. A clash, that was rooted in centuries of hate and earnest convictions as to territorial rights, has been settled.

True, there was some fighting. But the point is: the fighting did not settle the dispute. Agreement was reached by arbitration. Terms were not imposed by victors on vanquished.

Here—as the world knows but has so seldom been able to practice—is the way global peace must eventually be achieved.

Investigation Reveals Relief Chiselers

NEED for a checkup on relief cases, in order to prevent chiseling by persons who do not really qualify for public financial help, is being recognized in other cities as well as in Mansfield and Richland county.

In Detroit, for instance, where 13,000 cases are currently receiving welfare aid, an investigation of 453 of them revealed that almost two-thirds were "questionable."

Misrepresentation or fraud appeared in a high percentage of the cases investigated by a committee appointed by the mayor of Detroit, and an immediate investigation of all relief cases was recommended.

Cases reported as "doubtful" were those in which investigators had not fully checked on undisclosed income, possible support from relatives, or transfer to state or federal assistance categories.

Indications are that a more careful checkup of Richland county relief cases is now being worked toward, with a view to revealing possible instances in which relief payments are being made to persons not entitled to them, and also to disclose any families that need relief but have not applied for it.

Latin America Finds Peaceful Way

LATIN AMERICA has come a long way in the preservation of peace by means of international organization. Within the memory of all but the youngest Americans, it was axiomatic that there almost always was a war going on somewhere in Latin America.

Some of the Latin American countries still seem to be subject to frequent internal bursts of shooting, but they no longer shoot casually at each other. The recent disagreement between Costa Rica and Nicaragua is a case in point. A civil incident in a border town in Costa Rica led that nation to charge that it had been invaded from Nicaragua.

But the charge, instead of being fought out between the two neighbor countries, was taken to the Council of the Organization of American States, which duly investigated, reported its findings, and effected a peaceful settlement.

It is being demonstrated that international organization will work on a hemisphere scale. Probably there is no reason why it will not work on a world scale when methods are improved.

As the Leavenworth (Kans.) Times explains it: "One reason a lot of people don't stop to think before they speak is because they don't want to lose their place in the conversation."

Now that the Philadelphia transit strike has ended, traits of "the City of Brotherly Love" may again be expected to show through.

What Some Other People Are Saying

CHARLES SEYMOUR, president of Yale university: "Most men of my generation are conscious of our rich ignorance of American history. We are fearful lest those who follow us fail to receive better guidance in appreciating the factors that have made American life significant in the history of the world."

DR. HOMER P. RAINEY, president of Stephens college, Columbia, Mo.: "Some people warn us that we'll lose the fight against Soviet ideas unless we employ Soviet methods of repression. This is equivalent to telling us that democracy can save itself from being murdered only by committing suicide."

* * *

CHRISTOPHER P. MAYHEW, British undersecretary of state: "The purpose of Marshall aid is to set us (England) free from dependence on America. We have not the slightest intention of modifying our economic, our social or our political plan in order to qualify for aid."

Looking Back

Twenty Years Ago Today

Monday, Feb. 25, 1929.

While walking through Central park Lawrence Esbenshade and William Shade found a wallet containing $600, which had been dropped by a grocery store clerk en route to a bank.

Judge R. E. Hutchison had busiest day since municipal court was established; 27 criminal cases.

P. M. Woodin, personnel director of Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, was speaker at Exchange club meeting.

Edwin A. Conant, 58, died at his home, 99 Sherman avenue.

Architect's drawing of proposed new Y. M. C. A. building was received and on display at the Y.

J. S. Tritle was speaker at meeting of Westinghouse Foremen's club.

Clearfork overflowed banks in vicinity of Bellville and water was four feet deep over stretch of roadway.

Washington Calling

Conflicting Predictions

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE ECONOMIC medicine men are anxiously studying the signs and portents to try to determine just what is happening to us. They come up with strange words such as "disinflation," which may or may not mean the same thing as deflation.

Inevitably, of course, politics enters in. Within the Truman administration the belief is growing that Republicans in a kind of secret alliance with big business are trying to talk the country into a depression.

This belief is shared by important officials directly concerned with fiscal policy.

Contributing to that belief is the confidential report of a waiter who served a luncheon of top-level Republicans meeting with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey during Dewey's recent visit to Washington.

The waiter reported that the conferring Republicans agreed the one sure way to defeat the Democrats in 1950 and '52 was a depression which would bear Truman's name in the same way the depression beginning in 1929 carried the Hoover label.

You can see the clear line of a political division over the significance of the present economic trend. To administration Democrats and most of their economists recent reports of unemployment in certain areas are indicative merely of a few soft spots in the economy.

They quickly point to the fact that more people are working than ever before as proof that the trend is still inflationary.

But the Republicans in Congress make speeches predicting depression and insisting the preliminary manifestations are already with us. A tax increase, they argue, would only serve to speed up the decline. They are counting on signs of depression to block not alone the administration's proposed $4,000,000,000 tax increase but the whole anti-inflation program with its standby price controls.

In one arena the contest between inflationists and deflationists has been going on for some time. That is the Federal Reserve Board, which was given power by Congress last summer to control consumer credit.

* * *

"Easing Up" Probable.

FOCUS of the battle is the board's Regulation W. Regulation W, which became effective last September, establishes the ratio of installment credit to purchase price. On automobiles, for example, the buyer must make a down payment of one-third of the price and pay the balance in 18 months.

The pressure to change Regulation W comes from several sources. Some automobile manufacturers, conspicuously Kaiser-Frazer, say it must be modified. They claim that it discriminates against lower income families who would like to buy new cars but are prevented by Regulation W.

Dealers who find it harder to sell washing machines, radios and other durable consumer goods are also agitating for a change in the ruling. At least, they say, extend the time of payments from 18 to 24 months. Pressure has come, too, from second-hand car dealers.

Within the Federal Reserve Board the chief defender of Regulation is Marriner S. Eccles. Eccles, it will be recalled, stepped down as chairman of the board when President Truman named Thomas B. McCabe, a Philadelphia manufacturer, in his place. As a member, however, he retains a potent influence and he is allergic to what he considers political pressures aimed at altering economic policy.

Indications are that a majority of the board will eventually decide to let the buyer take more time to pay for his auto or his washing machine. That is the easy way out of the political pressure building up from day to day.

But those who remember the crash of 1929—the beginning of that "Republican depression"—cannot forget the bubble of installment credit of the late 'twenties. That was not a sound base for prosperity nor is it today. The first step—from 18 to 24 months—is bound to be followed by more pressure for more relaxation.

Those Disliked Controls

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON—The program that President Truman recently submitted to Congress for continued controls of all sorts of prices, credit, wages, and for allocation of still scarce commodities, has provoked outcries that the administration aims at a completely planned and controlled economy.

Republicans have been harshest, which is subject to the usual discount for political attacks. Democrats, with a few exceptions, have been strangely silent, and politics is a factor there.

Business, likewise, has been critical in public statements and through representatives who have appeared before the joint economic committee in Congress.

The program does call to a degree for a controlled economy in some respects, much more than anyone would like in our country normally, and much more certainly than President Truman, himself, and his advisers, would like or want.

To attribute to him motives ascribed in some extreme political attacks is not only unjust, but somewhat silly. He is not that sort of person or president. He has no power complexes, as far as anybody who knows him has found out.

The big mistake is that the criticism goes to effects rather than causes. The real reason for controls, and it is very simple, is the huge military outlay which requires a great quantity of all sorts of production.

This is in competition with the requirements for civilian goods. To meet both demands as equitably as possible, it is essential to have controls to provide fair distribution. Because of the shortages that exist still in some lines, which runs up prices under the old law of supply and demand, it is also necessary to have price controls.

An armed economy, as we should have learned by our war experience, can not be a free economy. An armed economy must, from its very nature and its very demands, be a controlled economy. We are, in effect, living in a military state today. It permeates the fabric of our government, our economy, and our thinking.

* * *

Considering Needs.

ON TOP of military requirements are demands for the European recovery program, which itself means commodities of all sorts from our supplies. The latter, however, could be filled without too much strain if it weren't for the extra 15 billions for military needs beyond the five billions for ERP. Both will be continued in the years immediately ahead.

All of this makes for an unbalanced economy that calls for constant watchfulness and regulation.

It does no good, therefore, to call President Truman names. It accomplishes nothing to criticize the controls, which are effects, unless the critic wants to take the responsibility of going behind them.

This leads him, first, to our foreign policy, in which there may be ground for criticism and, back of that, to the chief influence in our foreign policy, which is the tense situation in the world today that has caused every nation that can afford it, and some that can't, to maintain an armed camp, even as are we.

When we get back there, we are only dismayed and confounded by man's inability to live with man, and his reliance on all the strange machines we are building today, all of us all over the world, with which to strike at each other, over the ground, over the water, under the water, in the air.

French Visitors Meet American People

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The historic journey of 49 French "40 men-8 horses" boxcars through the U. S. A. is just about over. Except where heavy snow delayed the ceremony the boxcars have all been delivered.

The French committee of railroadmen, who spent months collecting the gifts that filled these cars, did not have the pleasure of seeing President Truman.

Though urged to attend, Truman went to a concert a few blocks away, from where they stood in the cold, presenting their gesture of friendship to the people of Washington.

Nor did George Allen, the assistant secretary of state who annually asks Congress for several million dollars to promote cultural relations with the rest of the world, take the trouble to go out in the cold to greet the visiting Frenchmen.

Did Selves Proud.

A GREAT many governors, mayors, and patriotic citizens were far wiser and more hospitable than the state department. Governor Tom Mabry of New Mexico sent his patrol cars across the desert to bring the French committee to Santa Fe; Governor Frank Carlson got up early in the morning and rode with them all through Kansas.

Governors Scott of North Carolina and Clements of Kentucky threw open their homes. Governors Gibson of Vermont, Dever of Massachusetts and Pastore of Rhode Island staged special dinners and lunches. Governor Warren of California traveled all across his state to greet them.

And so on—the hospitality list of the American people is too long to mention here and the net result is that these Frenchmen are going home enthusiastic rooters for the U. S. A. They did not get to know Washington officialdom but they did get to know the American people.

Most of our official ambassadors give dinners and cocktail parties to which the upper crust of government are invited but it's the people of European countries, not the upper crust, who are deciding issues today.

And while Secretary of State Acheson was so busy negotiating a North Atlantic pact that he could not greet the visiting Frenchmen he overlooked the fact that no treaty is worth more than the paper it's written on unless public opinion backs it up, and that arms shipped to Europe may fall into the hands of an enemy unless the men of Europe are ready to stand up and use those arms.

That is one of the most important points missed by the high-up planners of the state department and the pentagon. They are so far up in the stratosphere, so busy writing pacts and shipping arms to Europe, that they forget about people.

* * *

Friendship Foundation.

THE government of France which signs the North Atlantic Pact may be out of office the following day. But the people of France go on forever.

And as long as the French people stand with the American people we build on a foundation far more solid than pacts or treaties.

What most Americans don't realize is that Moscow, up until a year ago, had made great inroads upon the French and Italian people. Approximately one-third of them voted communist.

Moscow prides itself on having a hold on people—all its propaganda is directed to that goal, not to governments. Despite this, 6,000,000 French people—in answer to the Friendship Train—organized a train of gratitude to the United States. They did this without any inspiration from their government on a purely people-to-people basis.

Stalin probably would have given his left arm had the French people sent such a train to Russia, because he specializes in winning over people. But the French didn't send it to him. They sent their train to the American people instead.

And that's why, despite the cold-shoulder given the Frenchmen by President Truman and the state department, the receptions accorded them by the Mayor Joe Smiths of Oakland, California, and the Mayor William O'Dwyers of New York and the Mayor George Welches of Grand Rapids and the Mayor Fletcher Bowrons of Los Angeles and the Mayor Jim Curleys of Boston and all the others were so important.

For they saw the importance of this people-to-people government and they, together with the governors and a large part of the rest of the American people, gave the French the rousing welcome they so well deserved and will always remember.

Assignment: America

Texas Still Uncrowded

By INEZ ROBB

HOUSTON — Ho, hum! Another day, another million—And it's still here for the asking, in the opinion of Glenn McCarthy, the newest and shiniest of Texas' crop of 1949ers.

This Texan, worth 100 millions and up, believes any American boy can still back up the truck and carry away the same kind of fortune that he, the McCarthy, has carted out of oil and a dozen other enterprises.

The idea that America is no longer the unparalleled land of opportunity is, in McCarthy's opinion, a lot of communist propaganda.

Such false preachments make McCarthy so mad he has organized himself a Hollywood movie company to produce films to combat this defeatism.

"There is more opportunity in this country than ever before," he declared. "More than we have discovered or dreamed up till now."

For a taciturn man, who never wastes a word when a grunt will do, this amounts to a pre-oration.

His first Hollywood declaration of faith in the American future will have its premier here on St. Patrick's day, when McCarthy is simultaneously opening the newest, biggest and best hotel in the southwest, the Shamrock.

The hotel, a $22,000,000 luxury deal, will have an opening to rival any Hollywood wake, complete with klieg lights and a trainload of movie stars imported especially for the occasion.

* * *

Keeps Branching Out.

THE FIRST McCarthy independent movie production, "The Green Promise," is the story of "any American farm," McCarthy says.

This super-duper hotel is opening with a tremendous dinner March 17. It is symptomatic of the life and high times of Houston that the $42 seats for the dinner were snapped up as soon as they were put on the market, but that it has been most difficult to get rid of the cheap $33 seats.

McCarthy, 41, who looks like Errol Flynn (and who is just as handy with his fists), is buying himself a diversified empire with his oil millions. He has recently purchased a steel mill in Detroit and a $20,000,000 chemical plant at Winnie, Texas.

Lest he get in a rut, McCarthy has purchased a Houston radio station, KXYZ, and filed application for a video license. He also has latched onto a Houston skyscraper.

McCarthy also owns and operates a publishing company that produces fourteen weekly community papers in the Houston area with a circulation of 114,000. Houstonians have a hunch this is a prelude to a daily paper here. He also published a farm weekly.

Nor do the boy wonder's varied interests end there. McCarthy is a director of Eastern Air Lines and of the National Aeronautic Association.

In 1948, McCarthy's three entries in the Bendix air race finished first, second and fourth. He maintains two planes for his personal use: a DC-3 and a smaller craft.

When the chores of his empire weigh too heavily on McCarthy, he has a 15,000 acre ranch—cattle, of course,—to which he retires at Uvalde, with Jack Garner as neighbor.

He is also blessed with a beautiful wife and five of the handsomest children I have ever seen. A photomural, almost life size, of his wife and children hangs on one wall of his office.

An even larger photomural, this one in color, shows McCarthy sleek and handsome in hunting garb on his Uvalde acres.

Verily, his cup runneth over, and with pure gold.

And, in parting, McCarthy assured me that what he has done, any other American kid with git-up-and-go can duplicate.

"We're not getting the squeak out of the hog," McCarthy put it succinctly.

Farmer's Diary

About Capt. Cockley

By CALVIN A. BYERS

(Contributed by Town Crier.)

This is the story of Capt. Cockley—it was his true name and he came from northern Ohio to a beautiful broad rich valley where a small cross-roads settlement had started and a railroad newly run through.

On the park at the cross-roads he built a sizeable general store. At the railroad he erected a brick steam-powered flour mill. Money he had saved or was able to borrow financed this pioneer business venture. A rich and beautiful farm was also added to his enterprises.

In his store a much respected man spent most of his life to build up trade and make the place prosper. In his flour mill six to a dozen men were regularly employed. A cooper shop adjoining made the clean, woody-smelling barrels in which the excellent flour was shipped out. Farmers from all around wagon-hauled their grain to the mill and elevator, some for storage, some to exchange for the good flour, corn meal or cow bran.

The fog horn voice of the Cockley steam boiler spelled out each noon, the weather forecast. This forecast came in over the B. & O. telegraph lines. Just at 12 noon people, afar and near, "took heed and listened" and set their clocks and watches.

The dozen men who worked for Cockley (only his intimates addressed him as 'Bill') made very small wages as compared with present pay. They bought small neat homes, raised happy families, all of whom as I remember, turned out well, if not overly successful.

When slack times came—as they did—the men were "laid off" to work at odd jobs for farmers roundabout—or they lived on what they had, or had saved. They always had work when the mill ran.

The austere and gentlemanly owner had put up all the money for his various enterprises, taking the risk of their success or failure. When times were tough and his money and investments stood idle, like all the rest he had to "pull in his belt." His men, contented to work for him, had only the welfare of themselves and families to consider. All they had learned, or had, was due to their employer.

That was real "free enterprise" in the early days and "in the rough." Today if Capt. Cockley—he was a captain in the Civil War—wanted to do business he would have to get government permit to sell stock in his venture, mortgage his very soul if he wanted to borrow from a bank.

His income would be taxed as well as that of all the men he employed. If he made "excess profit" that too would be taxed. The state would set up rules for safety and health of the employes and there would be regulations on his method of selling and advertising.

A union would tell him whom to hire and fire and what wages he must pay—in short he might hesitate to do anything but hide his money in the attic trunk. (Years ago the mill burned down and Capt. Cockley died.) So, slowly, the country inches along toward government planning from womb to tomb, while "Uncle Joe" in Moscow grins.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

MR. TRUMAN'S $100-a-plate speech won't sizzle as long as his two dollar ad libs of Tuesday night.

* * *

The President still is getting reaction to those words spoken in anger. . . . Yet with a SOB in them for Drew Pearson.

* * *

But it seems so odd. . . . President Auriol so grateful for Pearson's "Friendship Train" and Truman so critical of his "Merry Go Round."

* * *

In fact Harry has set out to prove that 50 million Frenchmen can be wrong about Pearson.

* * *

But I liked the way he absolved columnists and commentators and is taking the rap for his own appointments.

A combination of scrambled eggs and fried cactus is a popular dish in Middle America.

Dave Boone Says:

HERBERT HOOVER, the country's No. 1 optimist, is still striving for efficiency in government. He now proposes that the entire state department be reorganized in such a way that it will frequently know what it's doing.

* * *

The present setup is horizontal instead of from the top down, as in any well-regulated business. There are so many undersecretaries and assistants that you can't tell them without a program, even when numbered.

* * *

"The people deserve the best organization and skill, says the Hoover report, "and the President deserves the advantages of a sound, efficient, smooth-working organization." In other words the need all through government departments is for a team, not a carousel crew.

* * *

But I doubt Mr. Hoover will get far. You can get fast action in developing new SNAFU, muddling up a given job and increasing inefficiency in government, but getting anywhere with a plan to do things competently is another matter.

Red Conspiracy In the U. S. A.

Film Expert Makes Error, Chambers' Facts Verified

By ROBERT E. STRIPLING
(Edited by Bob Considine)

A somewhat better idea than jumping out a window occurred to me on the day we were told by an Eastman Kodak official that our micro-filmed "pumpkin papers" had not been made by his company until 1946. Our entire case was built around our contention (verified by the dates on the secret documents we suspected had been stolen) that the documents had been taken and photographed by a Red spy ring in the late 1930's.

The better idea, I figured, was to sit down and think.

Then I got downright mad at Whittaker Chambers, who had given us the "pumpkin papers" several nights before, and whose

27th Article In a Series

testimony in the espionage case had led us to this sorry climax. In fact, I was too mad at him to trust myself on the phone, so when he answered, I asked Nixon to do the talking.

"Mr. Chambers," Nixon siad, controlling his voice well. "We've just had an expert look over the microfilm and he tells us it was not manufactured until 1946."

"Impossible," Chambers answered, quietly.

"What IS this?" Nixon demanded of him. "What do you have to say?"

"I have nothing to say except that Fate is just against us," Chambers replied. This was, to my mind, the greatest understatement of 1948.

We were just heading out of Nixon's office to face the grueling ordeal of a press conference when his phone rang. It was for me.

"Mr. Stripling, this is Mr. Lewis of Eastman," the voice said. "I checked with Rochester after I got back to the office, and it seems we have made a little mistake. Those films you showed me were made in 1937."

I kept Chambers a long time that night, going over everything he had ever told us, getting his explanation of what had happened to the "pumpkin papers" during the ten years that intervened, and I kept repeating, "Look me in the eye. Are you sure you have nothing else to show us? I am quitting this work and I don't want to leave anything undone."

OTHER SOURCES

The State department, Chambers pointed out, had been an important source for him but not the only one. As we said in our report:

"Chambers testified that between 1932 and 1938 he obtained documents from the State department, the Bureau of Standards, the Aberdeen Proving ground, and certain information from the navy; also that the same ring with which he worked got vital information from key United States industries."

It was Chamber's contention that sometimes copies of the documents from the State department were made on a typewriter in Hiss's home. We later uncovered several bits of typewritten matter from the Equitable Life Insurance company which experts said was produced by the same machine, and the F. B. I., later identified our samples of the product of that typewriter as having been typed by the same machine which retyped some of the secret papers retrieved from Chambers.

Much of what we learned we kept to ourselves, so as not to impede or influence the grand jury hearings running simultaneously in New York. I still believe we conducted our hearings with fine discretion. But when Rep. Nixon took the microfilms to New York to show to the grand jury, he was served with a subpoena as he carried them toward the jury room.

And despite the fact that we had unearthed and revealed the "pumpkin papers," and had brought attention to the 65 documents which the Justice Department had obtained earlier and apparently ignored, our activities were branded again by Mr. Truman as a "red herring."

Hiss, as you know, was indicted.

I have no way of knowing what took place behind the closed doors of the grand jury hearing Hiss, beyond the bare announcement that it considered him a liar, a charge which he will now be given every opportunity to disprove in court.

Drew Pearson, who once helped put me in the army, for which I am physically grateful, has subsequently said on the air (and it has not been denied that in the final stages of his long appearance on the grand jury's witness stand Hiss accused Chambers of being a rejected pervert out for revenge. That, to me, seems like the most outlandish charge imaginable — and I believe I know Chambers as well as any other man in the country.

As for Hiss and the others, we must await the verdict of their peers.

(TOMORROW: In his concluding article, Stripling retraces his decade of experience with the House un-American Activities committee and states his hopes for the future of such work.)

Husband-Hunt Admitted By Blonde Star

By ANN SCHOENMAN

"Let's face it, girls. We're all after a man!" stated Miss Marilyn Maxwell, movie and radio star, in an interview here yesterday.

"I may meet him on any tour, and then again, he may be right in Hollywood. Who knows? He might even be the bachelor in Mansfield from whom I received two telegrams during my short stay."

This blonde actress can talk lightly of where and how she may find her future husband, but deep down evidences of a small town girl appears when she talks of home. Since her parents were divorced when she was 10, Miss Maxwell has had her share of divorces, counting her own.

Miss Maxwell was born in Clarinda, Iowa, but claims Fort Wayne, Ind., as her real home.

"I started my career at the early age of three, dancing in a review with Ruth St. Dennis. My mother was her accompanist, so naturally I had to go to the studio with her. Ruth St. Dennis saw me kick my legs, as any child will do, and said, "That child has talent."

"I sang with a band in Indianapolis, at the Columbia club. Buddy Rogers was in town at that time and asked me to come to see him about singing with his band. Being independent at the ripe old age of 16 I told him to come and see me. Much to my surprise, he did!"

After a year with Buddy Rogers Miss Maxwell joined Ted Weems in 1939 and traveled all over the country. Perry Como was with Weems at this time also.

Ted Weems and her mother, both determined that she should go into the movies, finally convinced her to become a member of the Pasadena Playhouse. Eleanor Parker and Louise Albritton were in the same class.

"Being quite superstitious, I wanted to work for MGM. You see, I was born under the sign of Leo and well, I had to stay with Leo."

The blonde star was frank about the color of her hair. The studio told her to bleach her hair from a brown to light blonde.

Miss Maxwell was once asked by a famous columnist if the men whistled at her when she was a brunette. The answer given by the star was that they may not whistle at her when she had dark hair, but she certainly felt like whistling back when she is a blonde.

From Mansfield Miss Maxwell will go to Toledo for three days, then to Miami, Fla., and back to Cincinnati for shows. By this time the new picture being worked on for Miss Maxwell may be ready to start, so then it'll probably mean back to Hollywood.

Some stars choose large cities to work in, but Miss Maxwell chooses small towns. She explained that the audiences in small towns are much more appreciative than in cities.

"In cities you're either good or bad, and the people let you know the way they feel. In small towns, they can like you or dislike you, but they still treat you wonderful."

Candlelight Ceremony Held In Delphi For Mansfield Man, Bride

THE NUPTIAL VOWS of Miss Violet Mae Brauchler and Mr. Paul Clark were solemnized before an altar decorated with baskets of white carnations, palms and six seven-branch candelabras in a candlelight service Feb. 11.

Miss Brauchler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C A. Brauchler of Delphi and Mr. Clark is the son of Mrs. Stella Clark, 132 Sturges avenue.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edmond Kellar in the Delphi Methodist church. Preceding the exchange of vows, Miss Marilyn Sparks, friend of the bride, sang "At Dawning" and "Till the End of Time," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Theodore DeVoe.

The candles were lit by two friends of the bride, Miss Lois Suliman and Mrs. Russ White.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight satin with a fitted bodice. A ruffle of chantilly lace was fastened to the net yoke with seed pearls. The long sleeves of the gown ended in a point over her wrists and the full gathered skirt fell to a court train. Her finger tip veil was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls.

Her only jewelry was a rhinestone necklace and bracelet which were gifts of the groom. She carried a white orchid on top of her Bible.

Mrs. Ward Clark, the bride's sister-in-law, was her only attendant. She wore a gown of yellow crepe with a full skirt and carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations. Ward Clark, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Ushers were Donald Brauchler, brother of the bride, and Richard Clark, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Brauchler chose for her daughter's wedding a navy blue dress with pink and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Clark, mother of the groom, wore a green crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception was held in the church basement immediately following the wedding ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Greenwich high school and is an employe of the Babcock-Wilcox company, Barberton. The groom is a graduate of Shiloh high school and served two years in the Navy. He is employed at Westinghouse Electric corporation.

Those who attended the wedding were from Akron, Cuyahoga Falls, Mansfield, Shelby, Greenwich, Shiloh and Willard.

After March 5 the couple will be at home at 132 Sturges avenue.

The next meeting will be held March 24 at the home of Mrs. James Russell, 368 North Townview Circle, with Mrs. William Pearce assisting.

Give an April outlook to a February frock with a fresh collar, suggests the February issue of CHARM, the Magazine for the Business Girl. To last season's close-throated dark dress, add a ruffled, close little collar which you can make up yourself from fancy-edged picot ribbon, 1 3-4th inches wide. Gather the ribbon to fit around your throat. To one side, fasten a pale yellow rose.

Colorful Characters Prowl On Broadway Seeking 'Easy Marks'

NEW YORK SYMPHONEYS: Lord Pickledon, known as "Pickles" by the con-men. He hangs around hotel foyers and can spot a lonesome matron two bellhops away. . . . "Pickup Edna": She works the East Side beat and woos chumps at the bar to pick up her inflated tabs.

"Soapie Sam": Keeps a cake of soap in his pocket before getting into a crap game. Rubs it in his shooting palm and can make dice so sticky they stop where he wants them to. . . . "Girdle Gertie": She hawks two-way stretch items from a tattered suitcase in the mid-40s.

Jacqueline Susann (the Tele Vision) asking the unrecognized girl next to her at a first night: "Everybody's looking over here — are they looking at me or you?" Poor Margie Truman musta thawt she was being kidded.

Broadway Soda-Jerk Lexicon: When he says "Blue Heaven," it's short for a bromo . If he calls a girl a "Higgins," it isn't because she's a P. T. Boat—she's a non-tipper . "Burn a Churchill" means toast an English muffin . "One Danger" is a cherry smash "An accumulated" is a hamburger.

Big Town Story: A New York lamp designer has the same name as Jascha Heifetz, the famed fiddler...The famous one gets in his hair, too...It started when the violinist's friends (on the coast) picked up a lamp shade tagged "Heifetz" and sent it to Jascha with comment that the fiddling business "must be off" if he had to make lamp shades for a living...The star wanted to sue but his lawyers learned that both men were born with the same name...The other week the bedevilled lamp-maker moved to Forest Hills. The local weekly went into a printed tizzy about the neighborhood being graced by The Great One.

An enterprising burglar read it and promptly robbed the place, figuring a few Strads would come in handy. He found none but relieved the victim of other loot ..Maybe it's the other Heifetz's turn to sue.

Sounds in the Night: At Howie's: "She's the Happy-Go-Luxury type" At Place Pigalle: "He's so dumb he's the only guy who ever lost money on a quiz program"...At the Stork: "There may be bigots in the U. S. A., but remember — even the Garden of Eden had a snake"

In Lindy's: "Congress hasn't done anything yet because it is so busy preparing excuses for 1950 for the promises made in 1948 which they can't keep in 1949"...At the Little Palm: "He must be getting old, he's beginning to admire wit."

'Muscle Eyes,' Mouse Who Fixed Horse Races, Gets Cement 'Coat'

IT WAS the big moment in the criminal life of "Muscle Eyes," the hotel mouse who could fix horse races with his hypnotic eyes.

The cream of the American underworld was there to hear the head of the national gambling syndicate lay down plans for the "big killing."

But the tiny mouse, natty in his camel hair polo coat, was the key man. For little "Muscle Eyes" had earned $5,000,000 for the syndicate by putting the whammy on race horses with his high-octane eyeballs.

The night before the race the mob threw a party. "Muscle Eyes" and his mouse moll, Madeline, were guests of honor. Everybody drand champagne until "Muscle Eyes" passed out on a sofa pillow.

When the mob left, loyal Madeline, who wanted her mouse to go straight, began undressing him. She discovered a tiny pouch around his neck.

"What's this?" she asked, shaking him.

"Thass my magic medicine pouch," he mumbled. "Keep my thyroid capsules and benzedrine tablets in't. They put the old whammy in my eyeballs."

Then he passed out again. Madeline thought and thought. Then she opened the pouch. She emptied the capsules and filled them with sugar. She threw away the pep pills and put in aspirin tablets.

The next afternoon, still somewhat groggy, "Muscle Eyes" was smuggled out to the track in a binoculars case carried by the big boss. The boss took up a position at the rail a hundred feet from the finish line.

"They're off!"

That cry burst from thousands of throats as the big race began. "Muscle Eyes" crawled out. He opened his neck pouch and gulped down two pills and two capsules. As the horses turned into the home stretch Jakehoof was leading by three lengths.

"Give him the whammy!" screamed the boss.

The mouse bulged out his eyeballs. But instead of dropping back, Jakehoof picked up speed. The mouse pawed down some more capsules and pills. He strained his weary eyeballs from their sockets. It was no good. Jakehoof galloped on to win by seven lengths—as the gambling syndicate boss fainted.

That night the mob gathered again in "Muscle Eyes" room. The mouse was being pressed with liquor from all sides, and there was a Mickey Finn in every drink.

"We know you didn't mean for us to drop that $25,000,000," said the big boss smoothly.

"Naw, I wouldn't double cross you," said "Muscle eyes," blearily. "It was an accident."

He crawled into a hole in a chunk of cheese on the table and fell asleep. The big boss waited nervously until the mouse's eyes were shut. Then he gave a signal.

One huge gunman slapped a piece of bread against one side of the cheese. A second gunman jammed a slice against the other side. "Muscle Eyes" was entombed—a living mouse sandwich. No one paid any attention to his muffled squeaks. Quickly the mob wrapped the sandwich with adhesive tape. Then they dropped it into a cigar box full of hardening concrete.

Later that night a low rakish black roadster raced across the causeway to Miami beach. The cigar box, wrapped in a gunnysack, was hurled out and sank to the bottom of Biscayne bay. And so perished "Muscle Eyes," the hypnotic mouse.

Moral: You can't get away with acting like a rat—unless you really are one.

Thomas Sees Trend To Socialism

Official Raps American Apathy

"We're not teaching people to work. We're talking socialism instead of asking every man to carry his own burden," Joseph R. Thomas of Hayesville told county and townships officials at a road meeting in Mansfield yesterday.

Thomas is president of the Ohio Association of Township Trustees and Clerks. He talked to about 120 persons at the First Methodist church.

"The most dangerous thing in this country today is not Russia or communism, but our own apathy," he said.

He said England is an example of the socialistic trend. Welfare programs in Ohio counties have grown, resulting in increased taxation, he added.

Thomas said he was campaigning to have the federal money which is allocated to states used for road maintenance and repairs. The funds now must be used for new construction, and the counties and townships must match the government grants.

County Engineer Walter E. Rusk was chairman of the meeting and Guy F. Stewart, chairman of the board of county commissioners made the address of welcome. The luncheon was served by the women of Circle 3 of the church.

In the afternoon meeting, County Engineer Rusk told the trustees that the purpose of the annual road meeting was to "stimulate cooperation" between trustees of various townships and with the county commissioners.

CITES PROBLEMS

"Major road problems have resulted from the construction of the Charles Mill and Pleasant Hill reservoirs, the Municipal airport and the Clear Fork reservoir," Rusk said. He stated that after 12 years of asking for aid the county went ahead and raised the Crider road, which each spring was flooded by water from the Charles Mill dam.

Rusk said he was disturbed over the attitude of residents of the Pleasant Hill area over the Muskingum Conservancy district's desire to put in a park. He said he was equally disturbed over the county commissioners' refusal to vacate roads in the area in accordance with the conservancy district's request.

He said the county had rejected the district's proposal. "I think we're putting ourselves pretty much behind the eight-ball in not making a counter proposal," Rusk said.

He asserted that diversion of traffic from State Route 13, because of building of the airport, to Bowman street had done more damage to that road in three years than had been done in the previous 13 years. "I don't know where the money is coming from to put a new surface road on Bowman street but unless it is provided we cannot expect to keep it our Number 1 road on the county system," he said.

GET GAS TAX CHECK

A check for $20,000, representing the second distribution of gas excise tases, was received yesterday from the state auditor's office, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said. The money goes into the county's road fund.

'Malabar' Wins Ohio Honors

Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield will be one of 13 persons and firms given the governor's award for advancing Ohio's prestige at the annual meeting of the Ohio Newspaper association in Columbus March 10, it was announced last night by the Ohio Development and Publicity commission.

Bromfield will get the award because of his novel, "Malabar Farm" and for his personal efforts toward conservation in Ohio.

The idea for the award, according to John R. Advent, executive secretary originated in the Commission last year to spotlight the efforts of Ohio Newspapers in "Selling Ohio to Ohioans and the rest of the nation."

Among the others who will receive the award are: Jim Baker, Columbus Dispatch cartoonist for his series on "Ohio Was Like That;" Paul Brown, coach of the Cleveland Browns, for guiding his professional football team to a national championship; Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland Indians, for turning the spotlight on Ohio with a championship baseball team; Bob Hope, radio and movie star, for constantly promoting his native state.

The Ohio daily and weekly newspapers picked to receive the award will be announced at the Ohio Newspaper association banquet.

5 to Attend Convention

Group to Leave For West Coast

Four official delegates and one visiting delegate from the Mansfield YWCA will attend the 18th national convention in San Francisco March 7 through March 14.

Miss Betty Blackstone, president of the YWCA; Miss Rhea Ohl, president of the Employed Girls club;. Mrs. Lionel Schmaltz, secretary of the board of trustees; and Miss Agnes Kessler, executive secretary, are the official delegates. Miss Lucille Prosser will attend as a visiting delegate.

Mrs. R. G. Averill, one of the founders of the Mansfield YWCA who is in Pasadena, Calif., plans to attend the convention as a visiting delegate.

The YWCA budget allows minimum expenses for only one delegate. Additional funds were raised through sales tax stamp sales, and bake sales. Official delegates will pay part of their expenses and visiting delegates will pay all their expenses.

The Employed Girls club raised part of the money for its delegate.

In addition to the regular sessions, Miss Ohl and Miss Prosser will attend the business girls' assembly meeting and Mrs. Schmaltz the special home women's meeting.

More than 3,000 women are expected to attend the annual convention which has as its theme "Unafraid."

American sociologists, economists, educators, psychiatrists, and churchmen, as well as speakers from abroad, will address the meetings.

Governor Earl Warren of California will welcome the delegates at the opening session.

Site Lacking For Memorial

Lack of a building site for the proposed Richland county War Memorial was discussed Wednesday night at a meeting of the oint Veterans committee. R. H. Todd, JVC president, reorganized existing committees working on the proposed memorial.

Harry Mapes, representing the DAV, was appointed general chairman of the committee to speed completion of the proposed memorial. Paul Hammer, representing the AVC and sertary of the JVC, was named committeeman to secure the the building site.

Norman Freeman also was appointed a member of the reorganized committee. Freeman is a delegate of the Amvets on the JVC.

County Home Gets Inspection OK

Richland county commissioners found the county home to be in "very good condition," they said following their monthly inspection yesterday afternoon. They said that no complaints were reported to the board.

Clarence Reber was hired as a farm hand at the Home and his wife, Thelma, as an assistant cook, Harry Weaver, Home superintendent, reported.

Blood Donations Fall Short of Quota

A total of 123 pints of blood were contributed to the National Red Cross Bloodmobile in Mansfield Wednesday and Thursday, Mrs. Stuart Weaver, blood donor chairman of the Red Cross chapter here, said today.

That is 30 more pints than were donated during the January visit of the Bloodmobile, but it falls 112 pints short of meeting the needs of Richland county, Mrs. Weaver said.

Since Dec. 15, 328 pints of blood have been used in hospitals throughout the city and county and only 216 pints have been contributed. This means that some other county has been helping Mansfield and Richland county men and women get the blood they needed in emergency, Red Cross officials said.

However, Red Cross officials said today a meeting of the blood donor committee has been called and plans will be made to meet the March quota. A more detailed program is expected to be mapped and it should be in full swing by the March blood donor period, officials said today.

Transfusion needs at Mansfield and Richland county hospitals here are being met daily because of the blood bank at General hospital which is now being supplied from the blood center at Columbus. This center is one of hundreds being maintained by the National Red Cross for emergency needs throughout the country.

Established in Ohio last November, the Bloodmobile will visit here monthly.

"If Mansfield and Richland county residents are to do their share toward maintaining the blood bank at General hospital, at least 200 donors should be on hand for each visit of the Bloodmobile," Mrs. Weaver said.

Illness Fatal To Mrs. McVay

Mrs. Nora McVay, 83, of 125 North Adams street, widow of Byron B. McVay, died at Madison hospital early this morning, following a lingering illness.

Mrs. McVay was born May 1, 1865 at Richmond, and had spent the greater part of her life in Mansfield.

Surviving are two nephews, William H. Hall and Charles R. Hall, and a niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Flaharty, all of Mansfield; and two grandsons, Arthur and Floyd Zimmerman of California.

Services will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 10 a. m. Monday. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Shoplifters Flee Police

Clothing Stolen In City Recovered

More than $750 in shoplifted clothing from Mansfield and Cleveland stores was recovered yesterday by Columbus police who threw out a dragnet today for the three "big time" shoplifters who escaped in a downtown chase.

The three, two women and a man, were chased by clerks from the Harry J. Rook men's furnishing store on East State street to a parked car where the woman dropped three suits from under her coat and ran. The other woman pushed three suits into the rear of a parked dry cleaning truck.

John L. Southard, a clerk who pursued the shoplifters, said the fugitives ran in different directions, each pursued by a clerk, with no success. Rook, owner of the store, valued the recovered suits at about $700.

Suspicion of the three mounted when the women "fingered" suits while the man tried on several models, Southard told Columbus police. Then, the man pretended he couldn't make a selection and all three left the store. Southard said the women "walked a little funny" when they left the store.

Columbus police, contacted by The News-Journal today, verified the statement that some of the clothes found in the auto, were from Mansfield stores. They said, however, that they were unable to give a listing of the articles at noon.

Suspends Sentence

Kenneth L. Shrader, of Bellville, was given a 90-day suspended sentence in the county jail yesterday in juvenile court on charges of non-support of his seven children. The suspension was ordered on condition he works steadily and provides for their support.

CITY GETS CHARTER—

The city of Mansfield is now the owner of a framed reproduction of the original charter of the city of Zurich, Switzerland, drawn up in 1291. The reproduction which measures 12 by 20 inches, was presented to Mayor Roy W. Vaughn this afternoon by Tom Ansel, manager of Trans-World Airline here. The reproductions are being sent to all cities served by the airline. The letter accompanying the reproduction said the gift commemorates the inaugural flight of Trans-World Airline to the new inter-continental airport of Switzerland at Zurich Jan. 18. The reproduction is a gift of the state of Zurich and the municipal council of the city of Zurich to Mansfield's city government. The original Swiss federal charter of 1291 established the Swiss confederation.

Replaces Swanger In County

Takes Over Job Tuesday

Clarence Tugend, former state highway maintenance superintendent in Richland county, will return to that post next Tuesday.

Tugend, appointed by Joseph A. Tomsic, division state highway engineer, at Ashland, on the recommendation of the Richland county Democratic executive committee, will succeed Glenn Swanger of Shiloh.

Swanger, who held the post for two years during the Gov. Herbert administration, said today he hadn't decided on his future. He is former mayor of Shiloh.

Tugend will be on an acting status for the next month and will take his post officially April 1.

Tugend, former Worthington township trustee and county board of education member, was highway superintendent during the previous administration of Gov. Frank J. Lausche in 1945-46. He is a member of the county fair board and active in Masonic affairs.

Swanger, a Republican, issued this statement today:

"It has been a pleasure to serve the citizens of Richland county. I regret that I could not continue serving you, but due to my political views I am a victim of the spoils system."

Staiger Rites Set Monday

Funeral services for Leslie O. Staiger, 47, former Mansfielder, will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 3 p. m. Monday. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Mr. Staiger died in a Miami, Fla. hospital Wednesday of a heart ailment after a brief illness. He has lived in Newark for the past 10 years and was vacationing in Florida at the time of his death.

Prior to going to Newark, he was manager of the Liberty Shoe store here. He was manager of the Newark Bargain shoe store for the past 10 years and had been associated with the Louis Ostrov Shoe company for 25 years.

He is survived by his wife, Elsie, and a daughter, Shirley Ann, of Newark; his mother, Mrs. Nellie Staiger of Mansfield, and a brother, Ralph, of Hamilton.

Funeral services will be conducted in Newark Saturday and the body will be brought Sunday evening to the Wappner funeral home where friends may call.

Krupa Band Pleases City's Younger Set

Mansfield bobby-soxers and jive fans had a field day yesterday when Gene Krupa, the Drummer Man, and his band played "hot" music at the Madison theater.

It sounded like a crowd of Frank Sinatra fans when Crooner Billy Black sang with the band. The girls squealed and the boys cheered.

Doubling as director and drummer, Krupa presented a program designed for the younger set. Sharing the applause with Black was Roy Eldridge, drummer and trumpeter. His hot music shook the pillars of the staid Madison.

Movie star Marilyn Maxwell, who announced several days ago she was man hunting, got a big hand with "A Good Man is Hard to Find".

Miss Maxwell and another blonde, Delores Hawkins, were the girl vocalists.

Capacity or near-capacity houses saw the evening shows. The matinee crowd was smaller.

2 Shelby Candidates File Declarations

A declaration of candidacy for a Shelby city office was filed yesterday with the board of elections by John W. Gray, who seeks to represent the second ward in Shelby City Council.

In eight minutes Capt. William O. Ash flew the film "Command Decision" from Cleveland's Municipal airport to Mansfield's yesterday in a P-51 Mustang fighter.

The film, starring Clark Gable, Walter Pidgeon, Van Johnson, and Brian Donlevy opens at the Ohio theater Saturday.

Many of the movie's scenes were photographed with the aid of Air National Guard units such as Mansfield's 164th Fighter squadron of which Ash is commanding officer.

Ash picked up the film at Cleveland from the Air National Guard unit there and delivered it to Bob Lytle, the Ohio's manager, just a few minutes later.

The 164th squadron has 12 Mustangs and some other types of aircraft. The unit has 61 full-time officers and enlisted men to manage its operations and there are 353 men on the squadron's roster.

Bellville and Ontario Take District Berths

Co-Champs Survive Opponents' Drives

By CHARLEY STINE

Bellville and Ontario advanced to district tournament play as expected last night by outlasting a pair of never-say-die opponents in semi-final games of the Richland county basketball tournament. Bellville eliminated Lucas 44-41 after Ontario had beaten Lexington, 49-43.

The winners meet at 8:45 Saturday night for the county championship, but regardless of the outcome both are eligible for the district joust to be held the next two weeks in Bucyrus. Drawings will be held Sunday and play begins Tuesday.

The largest crowd of the tournament jammed Senior high gym for the affair which saw the county league co-champions live up to their record. All seats were filled by 6:30 and ticket sale closed as early at 6.45.

Both games were still a toss-up as they entered the final minute of play. Ontario's Warriors, much improved over Tuesday night but still not in their best form, had to freeze the ball in the closing seconds to beat Lexington while Bellville scored its victory at the foul line.

HOLD LONG LEADS

Both winners had sizable leads through most of the ball game but had to fight off fourth quarter rushes.

Ontario led by as much as ten points at times, after taking the lead at the outset of the second stanza. The score was 11-11 when Howard Sunnucks gave the Warriors the advantage they never relinquished with a goal as the second half opened

At the close of the third quarter, the Warriors still led by five points and they built the margin to 45-38 with about four minutes to play

CUT INTO MARGIN

Dick Cline pumped in a long one-hander for the Minutemen and Paul Fisher put them back in the ball game with a bunny shot as the clock showed 2 45 Dick Dill converted a free throw to bring the score to 45-43, but Howard Sunnucks broke loose to put Ontario once again four points ahead.

With a minute and fifteen seconds left, Ontario started to freeze the ball and held onto it until the Lexington defense pulled out with only 30 seconds left. Then the Warriors' Center Charlie Hammer was left standing alone under the basket and took a long pass to lay up a shot and put the game on ice.

HOWIE CUTS LOOSE

Sunnucks, Ontario's high scorer who had been offensively silent for the first game-and-three-quarters of the tournament, suddenly cut loose in the fourth period and flipped in four goals when they were needed most He and Hammer were the only Warriors to score in the final quarter.

Lucas outscored Bellville from the field, 17 to 15, but lost its game with too many personal fouls. Three of the Lucas regulars were put out of the game on personals Included was Jack Stephenson who had set the tournament scoring mark with 24 points Wednesday night

Stephenson made only two field goals last night as Bellville's Jim Fry once again demonstrated just how man-to-man defense should be played.

THREATEN UPSET

Nevertheless, Lucas threatened to make another of its last-ditch upsets when it reduced an 11-point disadvantage to a single point in the closing minutes.

Guard Don Harvey, playing the role Stephenson played the night before against Plymouth, did most of the "dirty work" With Bellville holding a 42-35 lead with three minutes to go he rapped home three straight goals in a minute and a half to bring the count to 42-41. He missed a chance to tie the score when he was fouled on his last bucket, and then left the game a few second later when he committed his fifth personal foul Fry converted and with 25 second to go, Fry repeated the performance to put the game in the bag.

Lucas will meet Lexington in a consolation game at 7 30 p m. Saturday.

Kentucky Takes Xavier 5 In Tough Game, 51 to 40

(By Associated Press)

Xavier's tussle with Kentucky's Wildcats—with Kentucky winning 51 to 40—topped Ohio's college basketball program last night

In other games, Wooster downed Oberlin 49 to 47 and Wilmington won 75-66 over Earlham of Indiana

The Kentuckians had to fight from behind in the last nine minutes of play to lick the underdog Xavier quintet A crowd of 13,000—believed to be the largest ever to see a basketball game in Cincinnati—packed the new Cincinnati Garden to see the game

NOT MANY SUBS

So hard-pressed were the Wildcats that four of the regulars went the full 40-minute route Only six players saw action for Kentucky.

Kentucky now has won 24 of 25 games Its only defeat was a two-point setback by St. Louis in December.

Xavier rolled into the lead for the second time in the final period and had a 34 to 30 margin with nine minutes to go. The Wildcats pulled into a tie at 38 all with six minutes remaining and then caught fire to win going away.

Corner Store Five Wins Class B Title

Frankie Mitsch's Corner Store copped its second basketball championship last night when it smashed Westinghouse for the Mansfield Class B basketball title, 43 to 24, at John Simpson.

Undefeated in league play, Mitsch's pulled ahead in the second quarter to win going away. The two teams were tied at the end of eight minutes, 6 to 6, but the Grocers led at the half, 20 to 10, and at the start of the final quarter, 32 to 14.

Mitsch's had won 12 straight games in taking the National league title while Westinghouse won a playoff for the American loop crown. Don Sands, Westinghouse's league-leading scorer, was injured and unable to play.

CAN'T MAKE IT

Although the Class B contest was billed as the feature, much of the interest generated on the clash between the "Young" Old-Timers and the "Old" Old-Timers. The game remained interesting for nearly three quarters but then the oldsters gave out

Many of the older fellows hadn't played basketball for 25 years but they trailed only 15-7 at the half. Final score favored the younger club, 37 to 13. Coach Bill Daugherty's six-platoon system didn't quite come off as only 17 members of the "liniment and old trunks" brigade made an appearance.

Daugherty had expected some 30 "players" Jim Courtney, the Wooster all-Ohio college star of 15 years ago, was the only oldster to make more than one basket.

Brinkerhoff grade school defeated its alumni, 10 to 9, in the first game 'Wee Phil Ford scored all nine points for the losers.

Senior High and Madison End Regular Skeds

Tygers Entertain Canton McKinley 5

Mansfield's two high school basketball teams wind up their regular 1948-49 campaigns tonight.

The Senior high school aggregation entertains strong Canton McKinley in the Tyger lair while Madison plays at Galion. The Tygers have won 13 and lost six while Madison's inexperienced Rams have won eight of 18.

Senior high will put its 19-game home court winning streak up against the Bulldogs who have won 11 and lost five against some of Ohio's toughest scholastic teams. Comparative scores with Massillon and Alliance as the basis give the Mansfield team a slight advantage.

TWO OF ELEVEN

However, Senior high has been able to win only two of its last 11 games with McKinley and can be rated only on even terms with the Bulldogs. The Tygers average about two inches to the man more than the Bulldogs but lack their speed.

Coach Vern Hoffman plans to go along with his regular starters, Jimmn Anderson and Ed Demyan, forwards; Norb Shibinski, center and Paul Ferguson and Ken McCally, guards. The tilt will be the final regular season one for Shibinski and Ferguson, the only two seniors on the squad.

The 6-3 Shibinski is second in the Tyger scoring column with 201 while Ferguson follows with 131. Anderson, a junior, tops the list with 264.

Wendell Early leads Canton with 186 while Basil Albert has 174 and Manuel Alverez, 171.

GOOD BALANCE

McKinley is the best balanced scoring and defensive ouint among Canton's six high schools.

The Baby Bengals will meet the Bulldog "pups" in the preliminary at 7 p. m.

★

Galion has won six and lost nine but has been in-and-out like Madison. The Tigers have won their last two starts, taking over Upper Arlington, 50 to 47 and Willard, 52 to 41.

Galion also resembles Madison in the fact that both are among the shortest of Class A teams. Soph Ray Seif is the only Tiger starter who hits around six-foot and he leads the club in scoring with 160 points. The other starters are: Dick Neuman, forward; Bob Fink, center and Bill Whisler and Everett Dysinger, guards.

The Tigers have averaged 45 points to 52 for its opponents while Madison rates 42 and 49. Soph Ed Chelski tops the Ram score table with 201 points.

Reserve teams of the two schools meet at 7:30 p. m.

★

Madison engages Bucyrus in the first round of the sectional Class A tourney next Tuesday at Senior high while the Tygers go against the Galion Tigers Wednesday night.

★

Both Mansfield schools began unannounced sales of sectional tournament tickets at the schools today.

Three hundred adult and 300 student tickets for Tuesday night's opening session went on sale at Madison. Senior high has 200 tickets for Tuesday and 400 for Wednesday's session in which it plays.

Sales will be made only at the schools during regular school hours from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. on a first-come, first-serve basis. No tickets will be sold the night of the game unless some are returned by competing schools.

City Bowling Tourney Goes On Saturday

The last full week end of the annual city handicap bowling tournament of the Mansfield Bowling association is scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday on the Richland Recreation alleys.

The Club league's Baku Grotto team is tops with 3,015 pins while the defending doubles champions, Carl Heilman and Bart Haley, are again leading with 1,269. Lloyd Hughes paces the singles division with 666 and all-events with 1,888.

Alumni Letter Group to Meet

Organization meeting of the Alumni "M" association is scheduled Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the YMCA.

Approximately 15 former Senior high school letter winners held a preliminary meeting a couple of weeks ago and decided to go ahead and form the new club. Rich Nagle presided at the original meeting and will be in charge of Sunday's session.

The group is open to all former Tyger monogram holders and officers will be elected at the Sunday meeting. Committees will also be selected to draw up a constitution and formulate a club platform.

Jerome Davis of the Chicago Cards made the longest punt return of the National Football league 1948 season when he lugged one back 70 yards to a touchdown against New York.

Three Pin Blasters Share Honors at Colony Alleys

A 634 by Nick Weber, a 235 single game by Mayor Roy Vaughn and a "perfect" 200 by Bud McKee all shared the attention of Commercial B league bowlers last night at the Colony alleys.

Weber had the top score with games of 191, 219 and 224 for the Liederkranz team. Jack Hanrahan was runner-up with 189-202-232—623 for Mansfield Rug and Linoleum, Bob Hilborn of Yunckers posted 616 and Darrell McCullough of Dearman's Transportation had 604.

SPLITS WITH MAYOR

McCullough had a 235 single game in his series to share honors in that department with the mayor. Vaughn had other games of 171 and 176 for a 582 series for Zitzer's but was topped by Harold Biles, Dearman's, 598; Hammy Johns, Schroer's, 588; Lou Pillar, Schroer's, 585; and Ed Henrich, Schroer's, 584.

McKee, rolling with Fancee Brands rated the spotlight when he struck in the first frame, spared in the second and continued the alternation to mark 20 pins in each frame.

Yunckers moved into a tie for first place by taking three straight games from Ingram-Martin, while Dearman's Transportation, the other leader, was winning only two from Liederkranz.

★

Led by Sue Humphrey of Ohio Sport Center, seven women in the Commercial A league topped the 500 mark.

Sue scattered the pins for 141-211-201-553 to win top honors by 29 pins. Helen Wilhelm, Lemley's Cleaners, was second with 524 while Donna Schuster of Sport Center had 511. Other "500" scores were by Arlene Peters, PD's Bar, 508; Elnore Gentille, 36 Bar, 507; Evelyn Marshman, Lemley's Cleaners, 506; and Garnet Karl, Richland Printing, 501. Helen had a 218.

League-leading Ohio Sport Center, PD's Bar and Frosted Foods all had sweeps. RD's led the teams with 2360 while the Sports had a single game of 870.

★

In the Women's Industrial league Emma Frontz of Mansfield Tire spilled 515 sticks for the best individual mark. Helen McCracken, Tappan No. 1 had 479; Helen Malthaner, Tappan 3, 439; Dorothy Dunbar, Westinghouse No. 2, 453 and Florence Nelson, Lumbermens No. 1, 430.

★

C. Donnan was in the van in the Tappan Stove loop with a 544 count. Fred Domer and Joe Harrod kicked over 537 sticks, Ray Kinton spilled 539; S. Bonecutter, 534; Dick Kruman, 528, and W. Gordon, 524.

Illini Whizzes Feature Big 9 Cage Program

CHICAGO —(AP)— Rampaging Illinois—only big nine basketball team ever to average 60 points for an entire campaign—will visit Chicago stadium tomorrow to meet an improved Northwestern quintet in the feature attraction of a four-game conference card.

The Illini, battling for their first Western conference crown since the days of the fabulous Whiz Kids of 1943, overwhelmed Northwestern 85 to 66 in Champaign on Feb. 7. The league leaders have won eight big nine games against a lone setback by Purdue.

The Wildcats, on the other hand, have won only two of 11 league contests.

SHOULD CRACK MARK

Illinois has collected 558 points in the current conference campaign and appears likely to crack the conference scoring record of 755 set by the Whiz Kids who finished undefeated in 12 league games in 1943. Their average was 62.9 for the conference season.

Should Illinois dispose of Northwestern, the league-leaders need only to defeat Indiana or Michigan in their final two games to clinch at least a tie for the title.

In the remainder of tomorrow's big nine program, Purdue (6-5) travels to Minnesota; Iowa (2-7) is host to Indiana (5-5), and Michigan goes to Ohio State (5-6).

Gold Medal Cage Teams Are Paired

Pairings and first week's schedule for the Gold Medal amateur basketball tournament were announced today by City Recreation Director Stan Kamen.

The tournament will open with four games next Monday night at Senior high school gym. Four more will be played Friday and another quartet Monday, March 7.

OPEN TOURNEY

To the Ontario Vets and Independents goes the honor of opening the tournament at 6:45 Monday. AVC will follow against Bellville Athletic club, Lucas Vets will play First Methodist at 8:45 and Richland Beverage tangles with the Shelby Merchants in the last game.

A 6:45 contest Friday between Mansfield Tire and the Salesmen completes first round games in the upper bracket. That game will be followed by Komito's Clothes-Lucas Lutheran, Shorty's News - Plymouth White Front and Shiloh American Legion-Au Construction, all in the lower bracket.

FINISH CONTESTS

First round games wind up March 7 when Martin Hardware meets Ontario Community and First Christian opposes Butler Boosters. Second round games that night bring together Penn Auto-Sporting Goods and the winner of Independent - Ontario game in one contest and the winner of Feb. 28's second and third games in the other.

Six teams drew byes. They are: Frankie Mitsch's, Penn Auto, Mansfield Tire B, Park Avenue Baptist, Urschel Insurance and Shelby Gump's

Only 25 teams returned entry blanks before Saturday's deadline but the entry fee of the Lucas Vets, postmarked last Friday, arrived Monday.

Corner Store Plays Ashland

Two Ashland teams will form the opposition for local quintets in the double-header set for Madison high school gym Saturday night.

Frankie Mitsch's Corner Store team goes after its 26th victory in 29 starts against Faultless Rubber in the feature. Faultless Rubber is the Ashland City league leader.

Preliminary will pair the Whiz Kids, well-known Ashland grade school combine, with an all-star team from Madison township's three junior highs. Players from East Mansfield, Lincoln Heights and Woodville schools have been combined to form the squad.

Cleveland Brown Hoopsters Beaten

RAVENNA — (INS) — The Cleveland Browns apparently aren't quite as good on the hardwood as they are on the gridiron.

The All-America football conference champs played Ravenna's basketeers last night in Ravenna and came out on the short end of a 39-32 count. It was the first defeat in the last eight games for the Clevelanders.

Ted Gets Big Slice Of Mint From Sox

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox's Ted Williams has joined the fold of the "satisfied" but 71 baseball players still balked at contracts today as the major leagues hurried through final preparations for spring training.

Williams became the last of the boys in the presidential pay brackets to agree to terms. The willowy outfielder called his boss from Florida yesterday and said "okay" to a figure some put as high as $100,000.

DRILLS START TUESDAY

Meanwhile, a roll call showed 40 athletes in the American league and 31 in the National still unsigned—with drills getting under way officially next Tuesday.

Most of these aren't serious holdouts. A majority will be in uniform when the muscle-limbering starts and will be buttonholing employers about raises during intermissions.

The two league champions—the Cleveland Indians in the American and the Boston Braves in the National—are among those having the most trouble getting their men on the line.

The Indians have yet to reach agreement with 11 of their hirelings, including several sparkplugs of their world championship drive last year.

Balkers include Pitchers Gene Bearden and Bob Lemon, who won 20 games each; Second Baseman Joe Gordon and Outfielder Allie Clark.

The Braves haven't signed six of their men, including the battery of Warren Spahn and Phil Masi and Infielder Eddie Stanky. Stanky says he expects to come to terms before next Tuesday.

BIGGER THAN TRIBE

Only the St. Louis Browns in the American league have bigger contract worries than the Indians. They have an even dozen players still dickering—half of them pitchers.

In the National only the Philadelphia Phillies top the Braves in the potential holdouts. They have eight, including Pitchers Ken Heintzelman, Ed Heusser and Schoolboy Rowe and Catchers Andy Seminick and Ken Sylvestri.

Heusser has announced he will retire from baseball.

Only one team in the two leagues has no holdout troubles at all. Leo Durocher's New York Giants have signed their complete roster.

The New York Yankees have a stubborn balker in Infielder Bobby Brown, who has announced he won't report to camp on time unless he gets what he wants. Pitcher Vic Raschi and Catcher Yogi Berra are others in the Yankee dissatisfied list, which numbers five.

TWO TO GET

The Boston Red Sox still have two outfielders to get in the fold—Dom DiMaggio and Stan Spence. The Chicago Cubs traditionally don't disclose signings and holdouts but the combination outfielder-infielder, Peanuts Lowrey, is reported asking for more money.

★

BOSTON—(AP)—Ted Williams, the American league batting king vacationing in Florida, was reported to be "very happy" today over the excellent fishing and a 1949 contract under which the Boston Red Sox will pay him between $80,000 and $90,000.

The best estimate of Ted's pay for last year was $80,000 and Williams said he had been given a "nice raise." But it seemed unlikely that he was boosted beyond the $90,000 the New York Yankees are supposed to be paying Joe DiMaggio.

Walnut Creek Wins No. 23

MILLERSBURG — Walnut Creek put victory No. 23 and the Holmes county tournament cup on the shelf at the same time last night by trampling Glenmont, 74-47, in the tourney finals.

Lakeville won an overtime from Berlin, 46-40, in the loser's bracket and will meet Glenmont tomorrow night for the second berth in the district tournament. Jim Ramsey got all six points for Lakeville in the overtime.

Killbuck won a semi-final grade school game 19-16 and will meet Ripley for the championship in tomorrow's preliminary.

Louis Gets Another Big Fight Offer

NEW YORK—(AP)—The big question about Joe Louis now is not whether he will defend his heavyweight title again but where and against whom.

On the heels of two fabulous offers to fight in Chicago and Cincinnati, the champion received a third yesterday to put his crown on the line in Philadelphia.

Frank Palumbo, Philadelphia night club owner and fight manager, offered the Brown Bomber $300,000 plus 47½ per cent of all television and radio receipts to meet Lee Savold this summer.

Palumbo, who gave Louis 24 hours to grab the offer, intimated he could stage the bout in Municipal stadium, which seats 110,000 for boxing; Franklin Field, which accommodates 80,000, or less commodious Shibe park.

There was no immediate word on the latest turn from Louis, who is staging a series of exhibitions in the Caribbean.

Savold's manager, Bill Daly, said he would jump at the deal regardless of his own and his fighter's cut. "All I'm interested in is getting Savold in the same ring with Louis."

In the past two months promoters have offered Louis $400,000 to defend his title in Chicago and Cincinnati.

Officials in charge of the thrice-weekly motion pictures at Hialeah report that "horse operas" are the most popular films with stable hands.
